ASTON ANCESTORS

HARRIET ANN ASTON

Harriet Ann Aston was born 22 September 1870 in Gainsborough, the daughter of Elias Aston and Eliza Fowlke. Harriet was the tenth child in the family. Elias worked as a blacksmith. The family were members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and they saved their money to emigrate to Utah.

They were finally able to emigrate to the United States 8 July 1874, on the ship Minnesota. The ship's list shows Elias Aston, Eliza, Joseph, Orson, Eliza, John Frederick, Alfred, Elias Jr., Harriett and Harry.

The transcontinental railroad, completed in 1869, carried the family to Utah. They set up a home in Pleasant Grove, Utah, where Eliza's parents had settled.

Elias bought a home, a little, old four-room adobe house in Lindon, where he settled down and farmed all his life. Elias's granddaughter, Irene Aston Shumway, remembers, "Elias had quite a hard time raising all those children. I have heard Grandmother (Eliza Fowlke Aston) tell about pinning some of the little ones to her apron when she sat down to sew. I remember Elias as a little man with a long beard, walking with his hands clasped behind his back. Grandfather (Elias Aston) studied the Bible and could recite the scriptures by heart. He was very religious."

Above the family home was a large ditch, and in the summer all the boys would go to the ditch for their morning washing. The family worked and played hard together. They all enjoyed square dances. The family also had tragedies. Orson was killed at age 20, as they sat on a hillside eating their lunch. A large rock rolled down, striking him in the back, killing him instantly. Harriet was only eight years old when her brother died.

The Astons are found in the 1880 census in Pleasant Grove, Utah:

Elias Aston, age 50, born in England, occupation: Farming
Eliza F. Aston, age 48, born in England, keeping house
Joseph Aston, age 23, born in England, occupation: Laborer
Edwin Aston, age 17, born in England, occupation: Laborer
John Aston, age 14, born in England, at home
Alfred Aston, age 13, born in England, at home
Elias Aston, age 11, born in England, at home
Harret Aston, age 9, born in England, at home
Harry Aston, age 8, born in England
Sarah E. Aston, age 4, born in Utah
Mary M. Aston, age 1, born in Utah

Harriet married Charles Edward Green 11 December 1888 in Manti, San Pete, Utah. Charles and Harriett settled on a farm in Pleasant Grove. Ten children were born to Charles and Harriet, but only five lived to adulthood. Their first son, Vernice Samuel was born in 1889, but died when he was 16 months old. Eliza Pamelo was born in 1890, but died at two months old, on the same day as her older brother. Curtis Charles was born in 1892. Vera Harriet was born a year later, in 1893. Herman Elias was born in 1895. Mable Gertrude was born in 1898. Leo was born one year later, in 1899. Ella Lafern was born in 1901, and only lived to be four years old. Arvilla Nettie was born in 1903 and died the same day. Frank William was born in 1909 and died the day he was born.

Harriet, Charles and baby Curtis

The family lived on a farm on the east side of the Utah State Highway on the outskirts of Pleasant Grove. Charles worked as a farmer, and also hired out as teamster around Utah County. He was known for his great strength. Charles died when he was only 44 years old, of a heart attack. Harriet was left a widow at the age of 41. Her family was young. The children were all under twenty years of age, the youngest being twelve years old.

Harriet is found as a widow in the 1920 census for Pleasant Grove, Utah:

Green, Harriet, Head, age 49, occupation: None

Green, Leo E., son, age 20, occupation: Laborer

Green, Myrel, granddaughter, age 9

Green, Aline, granddaughter, age 7

Green, Jack C., grandson, age 5

Source: 1920 census, at www.ancestry.com.

Charles' death presented a serious problem for 41 year-old Harriet. She had to work hard to support her family. Her granddaughter, Beulah Green Carey, remembers, "My Grandma Green, when Grandpa died, through some not too wise financial dealings, lost the farm, and most of her money, so she moved to Salt Lake and ran a boarding house. She was a little, tiny, dark-haired woman." Her granddaughter remembered that she had married a Mr. Downs later in life. Salt Lake City marriage records show that Harriet married John Richard Downes 4 June 1924 in Salt Lake City. He was shown as divorced and 65 years old. Harriet was 53 years old. John had been married twice before, to Eliza Duffin 1886 in Queensland, Australia, and to Sarah Kent 1921 in Salt Lake City. The marriage of Harriet and John did not work out, as Harriet is found living alone in the 1930 census, and John Downes did not die until 7 October 1935 in Salt Lake City.

In the 1930 census, Harriet was in Salt Lake City, and is listed with a boarder. Her marital status is widowed.

Like her brothers, Harriet suffered from asthma all of her life. Her granddaughter, Beulah, remembers her having a large cupboard full of medicine, in an effort to find relief from the asthma. She died of asthma on 20 April 1931 in Salt Lake City, at the age of 60. She was buried in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery next to Charles.

ELIAS ASTON AND ELIZA FOWLKE

Elias Aston was born October 24, 1830 in the city of Nottingham, England, the son of Elias Aston and Mary Elliott. His father, Elias Sr., was a nail manufacturer in Nottingham. Elias grew up in a family of two brothers and four sisters: Joseph, Alixe, William, Mary Ann, Martha, and Phoebe. His maternal grandmother, Martha Elliott, also lived in the home, and worked as a chevener—someone who embroidered designs on knitted stockings (The hosiery industry employed a great number of "out workers" who were known as cheveners. These women would embroider beautiful designs onto the stockings, and so earn extra money to supplement the family income).

Elias married Eliza Fowlke on January 5, 1851. Eliza was the daughter of John Fowlke and Harriet Raynor, and was born in Nottingham 20 April 1832. John and Harriet were converted and immigrated to Utah in 1861. Both Elias and Eliza embraced the gospel and were baptized in December of 1856. They became the parents of fourteen children: Drucilla, William, Joseph, Orson, Eliza, Edwin, John Frederick, Alfred, Elias, Harriet Ann, Harry, Louisa Martha, Sarah Elizabeth, and Mary Maria. Elias worked as a blacksmith.

William H. Aston, aged 21, Elias's brother sailed to the United States 5 February 1853. Later that same year he married Eliza's sister, Drucilla. Drucilla Aston,

The 1871 English census shows the family living at 67 Ashforth Square:

Elias Aston, head, married, 40, Engine Fitter, born in Nottingham

Eliza Aston, wife, married, 39, born in Nottingham

Joseph Aston, son, unmarried, 15, born in Lincoln

Orson Aston, son, 13, Rope Spinner, born in Lincoln

Eliza Aston, daughter, 11, scholar, born in Lincoln

Edwin Aston, son, 9, scholar, born in Lincoln

John Frederick, son, 7, scholar, born in Lincoln

Alfred, son, 5, scholar, born in Lincoln

Elias Aston, son, 3, scholar, born in Lincolnshire, Gainsborough

Harriett Ann Aston, daughter, 6 months, born in Lincolnshire, Gainsborough

Elias's oldest daughter, Eliza, was able to sail for the United States 22 October 1873 on the ship Idaho. Elias was indebted to the Perpetual Emigration Fund in 1873 and 1874. The rest of the family saved their money, and were finally able to emigrate to the United States 8 July 1874, on the ship Minnesota. The ship's list shows Elias Aston, Eliza, Joseph, Orson, Eliza, John Frederick, Alfred, Elias Jr., Harriett and Harry.

The transcontinental railroad, completed in 1869, carried the immigrants to Utah. They established a home in Pleasant Grove, Utah, where Eliza's parents had settled, and worked at farming the land.

In 1861 a few of the families from Pleasant Grove had moved out onto the land south of town, settling along a wagon route which had once been an Indian trail. At first these settlers lived in dugouts, but later they built homes out of logs hauled from the mountains. Some houses were built from adobe, a few of which are still standing. Although this area still belonged to Pleasant Grove, this string of homes became known as Stringtown. Some of the first settlers of Stringtown, later Lindon, were the Cullimore, Wooley, Brown, Nerdin, Howard and Gillman families, along with Frederick Fowlke. Other early settlers were the White, Davis, Lord, Bezzant, Holland, Harris, Ash, Parks, Fage, Dittmore, Wright, Mayhew, Rogers, and Wadley families, along with the Elias Aston family. The first couple married in the new settlement were Eliza's sister, Clara Fowlke, and James Cullimore. The first baby girl born in this town was James and Clara's daughter, Elizabeth. She was born in a dugout with a dirt roof and floor. Frederick Fowlke and James Cullimore later started a coffin-making business.

The first homes of the settlers were meagerly furnished. Most of the furniture was handmade from native wood. Their beds and chairs were made of willows tied with buckskin. They slept on ticks stuffed with straw, feathers, or cattail down. Their clothing was homemade. Most families owned a few sheep, and the wool was spun into cloth. The men's trousers was made from buckskin. The children went barefoot until cold weather, and then they wore moccasins of buckskins. There was usually no great shortage of food. A variety of vegetables was raised in their gardens, and there were plenty of fish and wild game. (Lindon—Our Town, 1983)

Elias bought a home, a little old four room adobe house in Lindon, where he settled down and farmed all his life. Elias's granddaughter, Irene Aston Shumway, remembers, "Elias had quite a hard time raising all those children. I have heard Grandmother (Eliza Fowlke Aston) tell about pinning some of the little ones to her apron when she sat down to sew. I remember Elias as a little man with a long beard, walking with his hands clasped behind his back. Grandfather (Elias Aston) studied the Bible and could recite the scriptures by heart. He was very religious." Above the family home was a large ditch, and in the summer all the boys would go to the ditch for their morning washing. The family worked and played hard together. They all enjoyed square dances. The family also had tragedies. Orson was killed at age 20, as they sat on a hillside eating their lunch. A large rock rolled down, striking him in the back, killing him instantly. Mary Maria was sickly all her life and never married. All the boys and Harriet suffered from asthma, and eventually died from its effects.

Elias died September 7, 1906, in Lindon, Utah, from "general debility". In the 1910 census of the unincorporated area of Pleasant Grove, Eliza is shown living with her son Alfred and daughter Mary. Eliza lived eleven years after Elias passed away, and died January 30, 1917 in Lindon.

The obituary of Elias Aston in the Deseret News, September 10, 1906:

DEATH OF ELIAS ASTON

Elias Aston, a highly respected resident of Lindon, died Friday afternoon from general debility. The deceased was a native of England, and came to Utah in 1872. He leaves a wife and several children and other relatives. The funeral was held yesterday from the Lindon meetinghouse.

The obituary of Eliza Fowlke Aston in the Deseret Evening News, February 10, 1917 (FHS# 27004, page 10):

TWO FUNERALS

Two funerals of elderly people have been held in the Lindon Ward the past few days. Mrs. Aston, age 85, was buried from the Lindon meetinghouse Saturday, the 3rd, and while this funeral was in session Mrs. Connor, another aged resident and a neighbor of Mrs. Aston passed away. Her funeral was held Tuesday at 11 o'clock a.m.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOSEPH ASTON AND ALICE HANDLEY

Joseph Aston was christened 30 June 1754 in Sedgley, Staffordshire, England, the son of Joseph Aston and Mary Aston. Sedgley is a large parish in Staffordshire. The principal businesses in Sedgley were coal mining and nail making. Joseph was a coal miner. Joseph's son, Elias, was a nail maker.

Sedgley is described in the History, Gazetteer and Directory of Staffordshire in 1851 as "Sedgley parish is a large and populous district in the centre of the great mining district of Staffordshire, lying betwixt Wolverhampton, Bilston and Dudley, and extending to within two miles of each town. It contains 5,170 acres of land, and has now about 27,000 inhabitants. It is in two divisions, called Upper and Lower Side, sub-divided into nine constablewicks or hamlets, viz - Sedgley, Gospel End, Cotwall End, and Upper and Lower Gornall, in the Upper Side, and Ettingshall, Brierley, Coseley, and Wood Setton, in the Lower Side. The coal and iron works are mostly at Coseley and Ettingshall, near those of Bilston, and give employment to a vast number of workmen. Several hundred hands are also employed at their own homes in making nails and fire irons." Sedgley is in the area known as the Black Country, due to the coal mining activity.

Coal mining in Sedgley is described at www.sedgleymanor.com "It was the mineral wealth that was to determine the area's future, especially the coal. The Black Country can thank its geology for much of its growth with surface outcrop coal mining recorded as early as 1273 in Sedgley. The famed "10 Yard seam" ran from the east side of the limestone ridge (where it was near enough to the surface to be mined using open cast and small "Gin pit" methods) to the west side of the ridge where it disappeared deep underground... The "10 Yard seam" - the thickest coal seam in Britain - was mined at depths of 1800 feet using the Pillar & Stall method with pit ponies used to transport the coal underground. In some places tunnels went as far as Wolverhampton, 3 miles away. Boys as young as 14 were employed at 12 shillings & 6 pence per week and at the height of production the pit employed 3,000 men and extracted 12,000 tons of coal per week. Open cast mining was carried out mainly in the Coseley and Woodsetton areas of the manor. Gin pits were also used in these areas. The Gin pit was usually a small shallow mine employing a maximum of 4 or 5 men. Often whole families (men, women and children) worked these pits."

Joseph married Alice Handley 15 July 1778 in Sedgley. Alice was christened 26 November 1749 in Uppington, Shropshire, the daughter of William Hanley and Martha Tudor. Joseph and Alice's first children were born in the hamlet of Ettingshall. The History, Gazetteer and Directory of Staffordshire in 1851 describes the hamlet in this way: "Ettingshall is a large mining village, about a mile SW of Bilston, with surrounding suburbs in Ettingshall Lane, Catchern's Corner, etc., extending into Bilston and Wolverhampton townships. The Rev. J.L. Petit has a large estate here, which was anciently a park, but has long been disfigured by extensive coal and iron works, and quarries of limestone. A large number of houses, which were thrown down or rendered untenable in consequence of the mining excavations under them, were rebuilt a few years ago on the adjoining pit banks, and now compose Ettingshall New Village."

Joseph and Alice's first children were born in Sedgley parish. By 1794, the family had moved to Wollaton parish in Nottinghamshire, and their remaining children were born there. Joseph's occupation was listed as a collier or miner, and he is shown as being "of Ettingshall".

Joseph and Alice had the following children: 1. Phebe, christened 14 November 1779 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 2. Ann, christened 23 September 1781 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 3. Samuel, christened 14 November 1784 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 4. Mary, christened 22 January 1787 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 5. Sarah, christened 8 February 1789 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; died 12 February 1794 in Wollaton; 6. Eleanor, christened 7 February 1792 in Sedgley parish; buried 19 January 1793 in Sedgley, "Buried Nelly, daughter of Joseph Aston of Ettingshall"; 7. Joseph, born before 16 February 1794; died 16 February 1794 in Wollaton, Nottinghamshire, England; 8. Joseph, christened 17 November 1794 in Wollaton; 9. Sarah, christened 1 May 1796 in Wollaton.

*10. Elias, christened 15 January 1798 in Wollaton, married Mary Elliott 3 July 1825 in St. Mary's parish, Nottingham, Nottinghamshire, died 25 December 1880.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOSEPH ASTON AND MARY ASTON

Joseph Aston was christened 27 November 1712 in Sedgley parish, the son of John and Ann Aston of Coseley. Joseph became a collier like his father, John. Joseph married Mary Aston 16 December 1735 in Sedgley. Both were listed as "of this parish" at the time of their marriage.

Mary was christened 24 May 1719 in Ettingshall, the daughter of Edward Aston and Margaret Smallman.

Many of Joseph and Mary's children were born in Ettingshall, and some of the later children were born in Coseley. Coseley is "a populous but straggling village and district, two miles east of Sedgley". Joseph died 19 November 1770 in Ettingshall.

Joseph and Mary had the following children: 1. Sarah, christened 20 March 1736 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; died 22 August 1737; 2. Sarah, christened 6 June 1738 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 3. Thomas, christened 15 February 1740 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; died 30 August 1741 in Sedgley; 4. Esther, christened 25 July 1742 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall. 5. Thomas, christened 31 March 1745 in Ettingshall, Sedgley parish; 6. Richard, christened 4 June 1749 in Sedgley; 7. Mary, christened 18 February 1750 in Sedgley; 8. Benjamin, christened 24 November 1751 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; *9. Joseph, christened 30 June 1754 in Sedgley parish, of Coseley; married Alice Handley 15 June 1778 in Sedgley; 0. Samuel, christened 12 Dec 1756 in Sedgley parish, of Coseley; 11. Phoebe, christened 4 March 1759 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; died 29 June 1759 in Sedgley; 12 Phebe, christened 11 October 1761 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; died 11 July 1764 in Sedgley.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN ASTON AND ANN HARVERY

John Aston was christened 8 October 1682 in Sedgley, the son of Robert Aston and Anne (widow Weightwicke). He married Ann Harvery (Harvey) in about 1708.

Anne was christened 17 April 1686 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, the daughter of Joseph Harvey and Elianor Mountfort. John died 8 September 1729 in Sedgley, and was listed as a collier of Coseley.

John was mentioned in the Sedgley Manor Rolls 1 August 1710: "Samuel Whitehouse vs. John Aston in a plea of debt". On the same day Daniel Aston in mentioned in the Sedgley Manor Rolls: "Samuel Whitehouse vs. Daniel Aston in a plea of debt". Perhaps Daniel is John's brother, as John later named his son Daniel. Anne died and was buried 11 February 1757 in Sedgley.

John and Ann had the following children: 1. Sarah, christened 29 January 1709 in Sedgley parish, of Ettingshall; 2. Joseph christened 27 November 1712 in Sedgley, of Coseley; married Mary Aston 16 December 1735 in Sedgley; died 19 October 1770 in Ettingshall; 3. Anthony, christened 27 February 1714 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; 4. Mary, christened 12 May 1717 in Sedgley; 5. Daniel, christened 22 November 1719 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; 6. Clement, christened 23 December 1722 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Lydia; 7. William, christened 24 August 1726 in Sedgley; 8. Rebecca, christened 8 September 1729 in Sedgley; died 10 October 1731 in Sedgley. The parish register lists the burial for "Rebecca, daughter of Anne Aston of Coseley, Wid."

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF ROBERT AND ANNE (WEIGHTWICKE) ASTON

Robert Aston was christened 9 June 1644 in Sedgley, the son of Robert and Ann Aston. He married Anne Weightwicke, a widow, 18 March 1677 in Sedgley: "Married Robert Aston of Ettingsall, collier and Anne Weightwicke of Sinderhill, widow". Robert was a collier or coal miner. Anne is likely the widow of Will Weetweek of Sedgley, and had two young sons at his death.

Will and Anne had the following children: 1. William, christened 13 December 1666 in Sedgley; 2. Henry, christened 29 August 1668 in Sedgley.

Robert and Ann had the following children: 1. Esdras, christened 7 January 1676 in Sedgley, "of Sinderhill"; buried 9 January 1676 in Sedgley; 2. Thomas, christened 25 October 1677 in Sedgley "of Sinderhill"; 3. Elizabeth, christened 26 September 1680 in Sedgley "of Sinderhill"; died 21 February 1681; *4. John, christened 8 October 1682 in Sedgley "of Sinderhill"; married Ann Harvey in about 1708; died 8 September 1729 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF ROBERT AND ANN ASTON

Robert Aston was born 4 March 1620/21 in Sedgley, the son of Owen Aston and Isabell Fullwood. He married Ann in about 1643.

Robert is mentioned in the Sedgley Manor Rolls on 3 October 1654: "Richard Whitehouse vs. Robert Aston in a plea of debt".

There is mention of the death of a Robert Aston in the parish register in 1658: "Robert Aston, ye younger, Ettingsole, killed in the Colepits, 10 Mar 1658." Robert's father was Owen Aston, but there was a possible uncle Robert Aston who had a daughter Sara christened in 1625 in Sedgley. He may be the Robert Aston the elder implied in the burial record. No other Robert Astons of the right age appear in the parish records. Robert Aston the younger's last child was christened in November of 1658. Since the calendar year started on March 25 (Lady Day) at this time in England, then the youngest child was christened about four months before her father's death.

Robert and Ann had the following children: *1. Robert, christened 9 June 1644 in Sedgley; married Ann (widow Weightwicke) 18 March 1675 in Sedgley; buried in Sedgley; 2. Elizabeth, christened 16 November 1648 in Sedgley; 3. William; christened 17 April 1651 in Sedgley. 4. Edward, christened 13 November 1653 in Sedgley; 5. Ann, christened 25 November 1658 in Sedgley "of Ettingsole".

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF OWEN ASTON AND ISABELL FULLWOOD

Owen Aston was born in about 1578 of the townland of Ettingshall in the parish of Sedgley. He married Isabell Fullwood 15 October 1615 in Sedgley. Owen's occupation was nailor. Owen is mentioned in the Sedgley Manor Rolls twice: On 8 October 1633, "Richard Whitehouse vs. Owen Aston in a plea of trespass upon the case", and 5 June 1634, "Richard Whitehouse vs. Owen Aston in a plea of trespass upon the case". This is a phrase from English Common Law - it is a tort which alleges a civil injury without force or violence, such as libel or slander, fraud or breach of duty.

Isabell died and was buried 12 March 1662 in Sedgley: "Buried Izabell. widow of Owen Aston, Ettings." Owen died and was buried 24 April 1679 in Sedgley: "Buried Old Owen Aston, Ettingsole, aged above 100 years".

Owen and Isabell had the following children: 1. Ann, christened 22 September 1616 in Sedgley; 2. James, christened 22 November 1618 in Sedgley; *3. Robert, christened 4 March 1620/21 in Sedgley; married Ann; 4. Mary, christened 14 March 1624 in Sedgley; 5. William, christened 19 November 1626 in Sedgley; 6. Elizabeth, christened 2 November 1629 in Sedgley.

It appears that the Astons were tenants of the Manor of Sedgley. "The Sedgley Manor Rolls were extracted by Janet Rowley. The period covered is 1614-1803. The Lord of the Manor had legal jurisdiction, devolved from the Crown, and held Court sessions for dealing with criminal and civil matters. Civil matters frequently related to land transactions and probate. The tenants of the Lord held land under the legal status of copyhold (so called because the tenancy was recorded in the court rolls and the tenant was given a copy). Rents were low, being fixed by custom of the Manor, but when land changed hands, it was described as surrendered. The Lord levied a large "fine" on the new tenant, effectively a one-off registration fee for his admission to the Manor. Copyhold was valuable because there was a right of inheritance attached to it, but death of the copyholder caused a surrender." The Whitehouse family were later steelmasters in Coseley.

ANCESTORS OF MARY ASTON OF SEDGLEY

Mary Aston married Joseph Aston 16 November 1735 in Sedgley. This page describes the Aston ancestors of Mary Aston.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF EDWARD ASTON AND MARGARET SMALLMAN

Edward Aston was christened 14 December 1690 in Sedgley, Staffordshire, England, the son of Joseph and Elizabeth Aston. He married Margaret Smallman 1 May 1716 in Sedgley. Both were listed as "of this parish" at the time of their marriage.

Margaret was christened 23 October 1699 in Kingswinford, Staffordshire, the daughter of Thomas Smallman and Sarah Brown.

Edward worked as a nailor, or nail maker. An article on the nail trade in the Black Country says: "The beginning of the nail trade in the Black Country and other parts of the surrounding areas are lost in antiquity. Reference to nails being made go back as far as the 12th century. The trade was always domestic in character, the nails being made in small workshops either attached to, or close to, the nailer's house. In the early times, that is up to about the 17th century, the nail trade would have been mainly a part-time occupation along with agriculture, with nails being made in times of bad weather and in winter. The improvement of slitting the iron into bars early in the 17th century helped stimulate the nail trade. Improvements in the blast furnaces and the change from charcoal to coal made the nail trade competitive. Richard Reynolds wrote in a letter about 1760 and said that, "The nail trade would have been lost to this country had it not been found practical to make nails of iron made with pit-coal". Trade with Sweden ceased in 1717 because of Britain's improvement in the northern war and the stopping of the most important centre of ironmaking in Europe was a great help to the Black Country iron industry. During most of the 18th century the nail trade was prosperous partly due to the amount sent to the American colonies which were not allowed to compete with the mother country. At the time of the war of independence the loss of trade hit nailmaking very hard although trade increased later. Around 1810 there was another decline in the American trade owing to the political situation, William Whitehouse giving evidence before a House of Commons Select Committee in 1812 said "Any person who knew the quantity of nails required in America would be surprised unless he saw the immense number of houses built of wood in that country". Around this time machinery for nailmaking was being developed, first the cast nail in 1780, and in 1811 cut nails began to be manufactured in Birmingham. By 1830 they were being produced in large numbers, Hand-made nails were also being imported in increasing amounts from Belgium adding to the distress of the nailers. During the "Hungry Forties" the people in the nail trade suffered terribly and by 1842 many of them were dying of starvation." (The Black Country Nail Trade by Arthur Willets, online at www.sedgleymanor.com) Often the entire family would be involved in making nails, including children seven years old and up.

Edward and Margaret had the following children: 1. Benjamin, christened 22 September 1717 in Ettingshall, Sedgley parish; buried 8 February 1797 in Sedgley; 2. Daniel, christened 5 June 1718 in Sedgley; died 8 July 1718; *3. Mary, christened 24 May 1719 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Joseph Aston 16 December 1735 in Sedgley; 4. Amos, christened 12 February 1721 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Mary; worked as a lineman; 5. Abel, christened 21 July 1723 in Sedgley; married Elianor; worked as a limer; buried 2 April 1801 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; 6. Abraham, christened 21 March 1725 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Hannah; worked as a lineman; 7. Aaron, christened 18 December 1726 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Mary; 8. Absalom, christened 25 July 1731 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall; married Eleanor Langston 2 February 1756 in Sedgley.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOSEPH AND ELIZABETH ASTON

Joseph Aston was born in about 1655 of Ettingshall. No christening record has been found for him, but the only Aston family having children at this time in Sedgley were Robert and Ann Aston. Robert was the son of Owen Aston, and information about Robert and Owen is found on the Aston Ancestors page. Robert and Ann Aston are most likely Joseph's parents. Joseph worked as a collier. He married Elizabeth.

Joseph and Elizabeth had the following children: 1. Hannah, christened 4 February 1679 in Sedgley. (At the time of this christening, Joseph's occupation is shown as a nailor.); 2. Daniell, christened 23 May 1681 in Sedgley; of Coseley; 3. Joseph, christened 23 December 1683 in Sedgley, of Coseley; 4. Edward, christened 30 September 1686 in Sedgley; 5. John, christened 15 July 1688 in Sedgley; *6. Edward, christened 14 December 1690 in Sedgley; married Margaret Smallman 1 May 1716 in Sedgley; 7. Elizabeth, christened 18 February 1693 in Sedgley, of Ettingshall.

HARVEY ANCESTORS

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOSEPH HARVEY AND ELIANOR MOUNTFORT

Joseph Harvey was born in about 1650, most likely the son of Nicholas and Elizabeth Harvey. He married 1) Margery Wicksdale 12 October 1675 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury, who died and was buried 30 January 1676 in Wednesbury, then he married 2) Elianor Mountfort 10 April 1678 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury, Staffordshire, England.

*Marriage record of Joseph Harvey and Elianor Mountfort in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury:
"Joseph Harvey and Elianor Mountfort both of this parish were married Apr. ye 10th 1678"*

Elianor died and was buried 3 September 1689 in Wednesbury.

*Burial record for Elianor Harvey in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury:
"Eleanor ye wife of Jo: Harvey was buryed Sept. ye 3d being wound up in woollen only"*

Why was Elianor buried in "woollen only"? "For centuries the woollen trade had been important to the wealth and prosperity of England, but with the introduction of new materials and foreign imports, some people thought that the industry was under threat. Many of these sat in Parliament as members whose constituencies were in the woollen cloth and yarn producing areas, or as landowners whose incomes came from rents paid by tenants whose living relied on wool and sheep. They combined together to pass an Act to try and maintain the demand for domestically produced wool. The first Act was passed in 1666, and the second, and rather more famous, in 1678 repealing the first. Its aims were "for the lessening the importation of linen from beyond the seas, and the encouragement of the woollen and paper manufacturer of the kingdom." The Act required that when a corpse was buried it should only be dressed in a shroud or garments made of wool. "No corpse of any person (except those who shall die of the plague) shall be buried in any shift, sheet, or shroud, or anything whatsoever made or mingled with flax, hemp, silk, hair, gold, or silver, or in any stuff, or thing, other than what is made of sheep's wool only." Failure to comply resulted in a £5 forfeiture. One-half of this went to the informer, the other half to poor of the parish where the body was buried. Within 8 days of the burial, an affidavit had to be provided attesting that the burial complied with the Act. The affidavit had to be sworn in front of a Justice of the Peace or Mayor by two creditable persons. If the parish did not have a JP or Mayor, the parson, vicar or curate could administer the oath. In practice, the affidavit would often be sworn at the same time as the burial and certified by the officiating priest. This Act was obviously unpopular with many people as they wanted to be buried in their finery as opposed to a cheaper garment or shroud in an off-white colour and of very thin material. The Act was repealed in 1814, although long before then it had been largely ignored." (www.historyhouse.co.uk)

Joseph married 3) Margaret in about 1690.

Joseph and Elianor had the following children: 1. Charles, christened 2 March 1678/79 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury; married Mary; occupation: nailor; buried 1742 in Wednesbury; 2. Joseph, christened 14 May 1683 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury; buried 16 February 1684 in Wednesbury; *3. Anne, christened 17 April 1685 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury; married John Aston in about 1708; buried 11 February 1757 in Sedgley, Staffordshire.

*Baptism record for Anne Harvey in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury:
"Anne Harvey ye d. of Joseph and Elianor Harvey was bapt. Apr. ye 17th"*

Joseph (of Wood Green) and Margaret had the following children: 1. Sarah, christened 3 July 1693 in Wednesbury; 2. Hannah, christened 17 May 1696 in Wednesbury.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF NICHOLAS HARVEY AND ELIZABETH BARKER

There is no christening record for Joseph Harvey, born in about 1650, but only one family of Harveys has children christened in Wednesbury parish in the right time period to be Joseph Harvey's parents. This is the family of Nicholas and Elizabeth Harvey.

Nicholas Harvey married Elizabeth Barker 14 November 1630 in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury.

*Marriage record for Nicholas Harvey and Elizabeth Barker in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury:
"Nicholas Harvey & Elizabeth Barker were married ye xiiijth day of Noveber"*

Nicholas and Elizabeth had the following children: 1. Elizabeth, christened 2 February 1633 in Wednesbury; 2. Richard, christened 15 January 1636 in Wednesbury; married Elizabeth Dutton 25 August 1673 in Wednesbury; buried 1716 in Wednesbury; 3. Nicholas, christened 25 August 1639 in Wednesbury; married Anne Dearlove 15 October 1671 in Wednesbury; occupation: nailor; buried 14 April 1699 in Wednesbury; 4. Margarett, christened 27 February 1641 in Wednesbury; *5. Joseph, born in about 1650 in Wednesbury; married Elianor Mountfort 10 April 1678 in Wednesbury.

Nicholas died and was buried 28 April 1670 in Wednesbury.

*Burial record for Nicholas Harvey in St. Bartholomew, Wednesbury:
"Nicholas Harvey the husband of _____ Harvey was buried the 28 1670"*

Elizabeth died 1 March 1678 in Wednesbury.

The surname Chirme is not a common name: "This rare and interesting name is of Anglo-Saxon origin, and is an example of that sizeable group of early European surnames that were gradually created from the habitual use of nicknames...The surname Churm derives from the Olde English pre 7th Century "cearm, ciern", noise, chatter, often used of birdsong, in Middle English "churme, chirme". As a nickname, this term would have been applied to someone considered to be particularly noisy, a "chatterbox". The surname is widespread in Shropshire and the West Midlands." (www.surnamedb.com)

Wroxeter is a village on the River Severn in Shropshire. It is at the site of the Roman city of Viroconium Cornoviorum, which was the fourth largest city in Roman Britain. Standing Roman ruins are found just outside the village. The church is St. Andrew's, and was built partially from re-used Roman stone. The font in the church was made from the hollowed-out base of a Roman column. Wroxeter was abandoned as a Roman city in the sixth or seventh century, and a small village grew around a ford at the southern end of the city. The Roman stone was used as building materials in the local area.

There are no christening records for Elizabeth Rigley in about 1640, in or around Smalley, Derbyshire, where she married Henry Godkin. Several public trees suggest that Elizabeth Rigley was the daughter of John Wiggley of Wirksworth. There is a christening record for Elizabeth Wiggley in 1640 in Wirksworth.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN WIGGLEY AND BRIGETT GELL

John Wiggley was christened 4 June 1617 in Wirksworth, Derbyshire, the son of Richard Wiglye and Elizabeth Hall.

*Baptism record for John Wigley in Wirksworth:
"John fillius Mr. Richarde Wiglye baptized - 4 of June"*

John was an alumni of Cambridge University, entering in 1634.

John married Brigett Gell January 1637 in Carsington, Derbyshire. Brigett was the daughter of John Gell. "Bridgett married John Wigley of Wigwell Grange. These three Derbyshire sons-in-law were to be critical in supporting Gell through the next decade and their families would maintain the Puritan cause long after 1662. The Wigleys were perhaps the most important allies. An old lead mining family from Wirksworth, they had acquired land in Leicestershire and Nottinghamshire by shrewd marriages. The John Wigley who married Bridgett Gell was the son of Richard Wigley, who had inherited Wigwell Grange from his brother Henry. Two of Richard Wigley's daughters married into Puritan families. Faith Wigley married Thomas Shelmerdine, Vicar of Crich, and was therefore the mother of Daniel Shelmerdine, who led the 1689 Nonconformists to Bakewell. Anne Wigley married Henry Buxton of Bradbourne, who would play a role in the Presbyterian Classis at Wirksworth during the Commonwealth. Moreover, the Wigleys were already related to the Gells through the second marriage of John Gell's grandfather, Ralph Gell, to Emma Beresford. One of their daughters was married to Henry Wigley, Richard's older brother. The Wigley family were friends of Martin Topham, Puritan rector of Wirksworth. These are the classic models of country squires and their families who would support Parliament in the Civil War." (Nonconformity in Derbyshire: A Study in Dissent, 1600-1800, Stephen Orchard)

John died and was buried 5 December 1647 in Wirksworth.

Wirksworth

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF RICHARD WIGLEY AND ELIZABETH HALL

Richard Wigley was born in about 1583 of Wirksworth, the son of Henry Wigley and Elizabeth Gell. He married Elizabeth Hall, the daughter of Henry Hall, 14 April 1605 in Costock, Nottinghamshire.

In an article on Wigley Grange by Derek A. Wigley, Richard's life is described: "In 1598 Henry's second son Richard obtained a lease of some lands at Costock in Nottinghamshire. It was there that he met his wife to be, Elizabeth Hall, and her sister Jane, who would eventually marry Edward Lowe of Alderwasley. In 1603 Wigwell was settled on Richard and two years later (March 3rd 1605) the marriage settlement between Henry Hall, Henry Wigley and Richard was drawn up. By this indenture Henry Hall was to pay Henry Wigley £200 – and certain lands were to be settled on Elizabeth Hall for her life. These were "Wigwall Green and Rough Close, Ould Wigwalls and Haseleys all being near the capital messuage, and the Water Mill with the Griste Soake and Cley Flatts". Richard now built a house adjoining the old grange, which was rather different from the usual farmhouses of the area. By 1610 Richard and Elizabeth had three daughters and in that year his father died, and Wigwell gained a half of Henry's library. It was not until 1617 that his first son, John was born, to be followed in 1618 by Edward who died an infant, and in 1620 by Richard. When Richard died in 1635 John, his heir, was yet an infant at law (under 21) so his mother placed the estate in the Court of Wards." (Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 3)

An article on the Wigleys describes Richard and his marriage: "Richard could be considered as the adventurer of the family...During the few years that Richard spent near Nottingham he absorbed something of the way of life of the town dweller and their methods of entertaining. He was on very good terms with the neighboring families and in two of them found his own wife-to-be and a husband for his sister Mary...Richard's marriage could well have been a love match. Elizabeth Hall of Costock was very capable and she applied her talents very well in later life when she was widowed and her eldest son was still in his minority." (Old Henry Wigley, by Derek Wigley, Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 4)

Richard died and was buried in Wirksworth 27 April 1635 in Wirksworth.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF HENRY WIGLEY AND ELIZABETH GELL

Henry Wigley was born in about 1543, the son of John Wigley and Elizabeth Crane. He married Elizabeth Gell, the daughter of Ralph Gell and Emma Beresford.

"Elizabeth Gell married Henry at Carsington when she was about 15 years old, (probably about 1566). The customs of the times indicate that Henry would have courted her for about six months and that she was agreeable to the match. After the wedding the bride and groom lived at Ralph Gell's house for their "honey-month" and at the end of that time the dowry was paid and they went to live in Henry's house which was probably in Senior Field." (Old Henry Wigley, by Derek Wigley, Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol. 4)

The Reliquary: Depository for Precious Relics, Legendary, Biographical, and Historical, Volume 12

"In 1570 Elizabeth gave Henry his first son, who was called Thomas. This would cause a major celebration, to be followed a year later by a second son Richard. In all there were eight sons and three daughters. Henry and Elizabeth were very happy. Many of their children were named after their godparents. Their eldest son's godfather was Thomas Gell (Sir John's father) the second son's godfather was brother Richard, Mary's godmother was Mary Hurt, Elizabeth's sister. Anthony was godson to Anthony Gell. John was godson to John Wigley of the Gatehouse, Henry's brother Ralph was godfather to the fifth son. The other godparents are more difficult to find, but by the time the sixth child was born, in 1579, John, Henry's father died. Elizabeth his widow went to live in a cottage in Senior Field, and Henry and Elizabeth and their children went to live in "The Hall" at Middleton." (Old Henry Wigley, by Derek Wigley)

Although from a farming family, Henry made a fortune in lead mining, and was granted a coat of arms. In 1586, Henry purchased land in Wirksworth: "On March 1st 1586 Wigwall was purchased by Henry Wigley of Middleton by Wirksworth from George Babington of Kingston for £300. Although Henry Wigley had purchased Wigwell he never lived in the Grange. His interest in the estate was mainly for the timber which he used on his "bole"; lead-smelting was one of his family's more important activities." (Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol. 3)

"Henry seems to have had no small ability in these matters - and was careful for his family's health. In his garden there were roses and some of the hardier English flowers but there were many herbs, and his wife Elizabeth was well skilled in making herbal brews which were considered efficacious - for in his commonplace book, headed "The Vertues of Nyne Waters", Henry wrote the following:-

Water of Churnell is good for a sore mouth,

Water of Calaminte is good for the stomake,
 Water of Plantin is good for the flixie and whott dropsie,
 Water of Fennell is good to make a gt bodye small, and for the eye.
 Water of Vyolette is good for a man that is swollen in the bodye or for the raynes & the liver.
 Water of Endyve is good for jaundice, dropsie & the stomake.
 Water of Burradge is good for the stomake & the collique.
 Water of both sages is good for palsy.
 Water of Betanye is good for heavinges and all manner of Sickness in man's boddye.

Besides these Henry grew "Hyssope, Thyme, Winter Sage, Sweet Marjoram and. Rosemary", and he had a small orchard." (Old Henry Wigley)

Henry died and was buried 18 June 1610 in Wirksworth, at which time his widow Elizabeth moved into the Senior Field, where there were several cottages.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN WIGLEY AND ELIZABETH CRANE

John Wigley was born in about 1490. He married Elizabeth Crane, daughter of Ralph Crane. "John Wigley, of Middleton, in the county of Derby, living in 1491, son of John Wigley of Worksworth, in the same shire, married Elizabeth, daughter of Ralph Crane". (Burke's Commoners of Great Britain). Other sources suggest that John's father was Richard Wigley.

"In 1532 Richard purchased a fourth part of Roger More's lands in Middleton-by-Wirksworth for £8. At that time John Wigley was unmarried, and More, a draper of Derby, and presumably a business acquaintance, agreed to an abatement of half the purchase money if John would marry one of his daughters. The proposal was not favourably received because John, shortly afterwards married Elizabeth, daughter of Ralph Crane, a cousin of the Gell family. About 1533 their first son, Henry, was born." (Old Henry Wigley)

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF RICHARD AND ISABEL WIGLEY

Richard Wigley was born in about 1470 of Wirksworth. He married Isabel.

"Richard Wigley was a yeoman, probably born in the 1480s. As a farmer he grew wheat, barley and oats, and in pasture there were sheep and goats. His wife and daughter wove the wool into cloth which was in great demand at that time. This alone could have founded his family's fortunes, but he also had a bole for smelting lead. Consequently he had amounts of ready money which he reinvested partially in land, for the bole required a great deal of firewood, and it was better to grow timber on one's own land than to buy it. By 1530 Richard had lent £30 to William Tagg, yeoman of Matlock, but since William could not repay this he sold two messuages, a cottage and thirty acres of land to Richard. This land was tenanted by Roger Walker. In 1532 (September) William Tagg, perhaps in need of ready money again, contracted a sale to John, Richard Wigley's elder son, for the remainder of his houses, lands, tenements, pastures and services. In the conveyance Richard Wigley's brother Willian (whose descendants lived at Mylnehouses) was a witness. A close on this land was called Senior Field...When Henry's grandfather Richard died in 1540 widowed Isabel went to live at Senior Field, and John and Elizabeth and their children moved to Middleton.." (Old Henry Wigley, by Derek Wigley)

Wigley Pedigree from "Old Henry Wigley, by Derek Wigley, Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 4"

"In 1540 Richard Wigley died. He had lived at Middleton since buying land there from Roger More. The house was to become known as the Hall. In his will he requested to be buried in Wirksworth church before the St Catherine Quire, a chantry which had been founded by the Wigley family. He left money for prayers and masses to be said for him. Also "I bequeath to ye chapel of Crumford 11s." (two shillings) Richard also left to his wife Isabel, during her life "a close called Senyor Fyld with all the houses longing thereto with all ye rights and heyreditaments." (Cromford Village in Derbyshire)

Richard died in 1540, leaving a will written 9 August 1540 and proven 15 December 1540. He left bequests to his wife Isabell, son John, and daughters Elizabeth, Katheryne, and Crystyn.

Will of Richard Wigley of Middleton, 1540

Isabel died September 1558, leaving a will dated 14 May 1556 and proven 16 September 1558: "In 1556 Grandmother Isabel - made her Will and made small bequests to Henry and his brothers - also a sheep to his cousin William of Millers Green, and Henry's Aunt Elizabeth was appointed. sole executrix" (Old Henry Wigley) Isabel left bequests to her granddaughter Elizabeth Hall, her daughter Elizabeth, and son John.

"Isabel Wigley, Richard's widow, had moved to Senior Field in Cromford where she died in September 1558. She wanted to be buried in "my parish church of Matlok before ye image of our lady (if my son John will be so pleased)." She did not choose to be buried with her husband, who eighteen years previously had been buried before the chantry of St Catherine in Wirksworth church. Included in the inventory of her goods were 4 "fodders" of lead, a measure worth at that time £5. These would be used as security against cash or goods. Two of them she left to her granddaughter Elizabeth Gell. The witnesses to the will were William Flint, priest, who wrote the will, John Lane, Thomas Woodwyse and Roger Walker - who still tenanted part of the lands. Among the appraisers of her estate were William Woodwyse, Edward Hygton and Henry Rag. Senior Field Close was left to Isabel for her lifetime so now reverted to her son John, who lived at The Hall, Middleton with his wife Elizabeth." (Cromford Village in Derbyshire)

Early Wigleys:

"The Wigley family takes its name from a hamlet near Old Brampton, four miles from Chesterfield. The first recorded mention of a Wigley in Wirksworth was in 1383 when land was granted to Richard, son of Roger de Wygeleye. In 1451 at Wirksworth manor court, William Alson surrendered a cottage in Wirksworth to the use of John Wigley and Ralph his son." (Cromford Village in Derbyshire)

Lead Mining in Derbyshire:

"The first smelting of Derbyshire lead ore, known as galena, was some 3500 years ago. Two thousand years ago the Romans made it an important industry. By the 1600s lead had become second in importance in the national economy only to wool. It was essential for the roofs of public buildings and the new houses being built in every part of the country by the nobility and gentry. All houses, including farmhouses and cottages by then, had glazed windows, with lead glazing bars. It was the only material for water storage and piping. Even the army used it as ammunition. There was a thriving export trade as well as the home market and the Wirksworth area was the main source of the ore. (Derbyshire UK, <http://www.derbyshireuk.net/leadmining5.html>)

GELL ANCESTORS

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN GELL AND ELIZABETH WILLOUGHBY

John Gell was born 22 June 1593 in Hopton Hall, Derbyshire, and christened 2 July 1593 in Carsington, Derbyshire, the son of Thomas Gell and Millicent Sacheverell. John's father died when John was still an infant, just before the birth of his younger brother Thomas. John's mother married again, to Sir John Curzon. Elizabeth gave birth to another son, John Curzon, in 1598.

"John Gell grew up with his new half-brother, John Curzon, at Kedleston rather than at Hopton Hall. That may partly account for his early marriage and service abroad, though he returned to live at Kedleston until 1628. He remained in contact with his mother and stepfather but at a quarrelsome rather than affectionate level. His papers contain some religious writings but also a large corpus of love poetry which modern stereotyping associates more easily with a Cavalier than a Roundhead." (Nonconformity in Derbyshire: A Study in Dissent, 1600-1800, Stephen Orchard)

John attended Oxford University: "He matriculated as a commoner of Magdalen College, Oxford, on 16 June 1610, but left the university without a degree." (Dictionary of National Biography)

Gell married in January 1609, at the age of 15, to Elizabeth Willoughby, the daughter of Sir Percival and Bridget Willoughby of Wollaton in Nottinghamshire. "At Wirksworth the Gell family of Hopton Hall were the local proprietors and their tombs sit in the parish church to this day...Sir John Gell of Hopton (1593-1671) was not favoured by a contemporary biography, complimentary or otherwise...Almost all we know about him concerns battles – actual combats in the war and legal wrangling over property. As a young man he was a soldier in the Netherlands c1610 and is said to have acquired his Puritan sympathies there. However, it was before then that he married Elizabeth Willoughby on the 22 January 1609/10, daughter of Sir Perceval Willoughby, members of a known Puritan family." (Nonconformity in Derbyshire: A Study in Dissent, 1600-1800, Stephen Orchard)

Sir John Gell

"John and Elizabeth Gell had six children born between 1611 and 1620, two sons and four daughters. The marriages of these children extended kinship and its mutual obligations, sometimes far beyond Hopton. The oldest daughter, Millicent, married Richard Radcliffe, son of a rich Manchester merchant, later a supporter of Parliament in the Civil War. The younger daughters all married locally. Elizabeth married Henry Wigfall of Renishaw, Eleanor married Anthony Alsopp of Allsop-in-le-Dale, and Bridgett married John Wigley of Wigwell Grange. These three Derbyshire sons-in-law were to be critical in supporting Gell through the next decade and their families would maintain the Puritan cause long after 1662. The Wigleys were perhaps the most important allies. An old lead mining family from Wirksworth, they had acquired land in the Leicestershire and Nottinghamshire by shrewd marriages. The John Wigley who married Bridgett Gell was the son of Richard Wigley, who had inherited Wigwell Grange from his brother Henry. Two of Richard Wigley's daughters married into Puritan families. Faith Wigley married Thomas Shelmerdine, Vicar of Crich, and was therefore the mother of Daniel Shelmerdine, who led the 1689 Nonconformists to Bakewell. Anne Wigley married Henry Buxton of Bradbourne, who would play a role in the Presbyterian Classis at Wirksworth during the Commonwealth. Moreover, the Wigleys were already related to the Gells through the second marriage of John Gell's grandfather, Ralph Gell, to Emma Beresford. One of their daughters was married to Henry Wigley, Richard's older brother. The Wigley family were friends of Martin Topham, Puritan rector of Wirksworth. These are the classic models of country squires and their families who would support Parliament in the Civil War.

The Gell daughters married successfully from their father's point of view. What of the sons? The younger son, William, proved a disappointment to the family. Put into business in London, he fell into dissolute ways and was reduced to having his money rationed out to him by agents. Though his drinking is not given as the specific cause of his woes he shows a classic pattern of dependency, always owning his sins and promising to live a better life. He came back to Hopton to die in 1642, a mere 27 years old, as the political crisis deepened. The son and heir John Gell (1613-1689) was everything William was not. He was shrewd, dependable and a good landlord. He made a good marriage, to Catherine Packer." (Nonconformity in Derbyshire: A Study in Dissent, 1600-1800, Stephen Orchard)

John became involved with local and national politics: "Gell's next public appointment was shared with his brother, Thomas, who was a well-connected barrister in London. This was the office of Receiver and Supervisor of the Honour of Tutbury, granted in 1632 successively, for life, to Thomas, and to John and his son, John Gell the younger. The Honour of Tutbury was the name given to the Derbyshire and Staffordshire estates of the Duchy of Lancaster, a royal possession, and Thomas was responsible for collecting Duchy rents and dues, including fees payable whenever a Duchy tenancy was transferred by sale or inheritance. Armed with a schedule of property on which inheritance fees were outstanding, Thomas Gell ordered that defaulters' property should be seized in lieu of unpaid Duchy rents. At a time when the king, Charles I, was governing without a Parliament, and was desperately short of money, the Gells' revenue raising earned them royal favour. John Gell was rewarded by appointment to the post of High Sheriff of Derbyshire for the year 1635. Gell's record of service to the crown was rewarded by the grant of a baronetcy in 1642, after payments made on his behalf by his brother Thomas, in London, which included "a warrant for a Baronett £300". (www.wikipedia.com)

John's feisty nature caused problems in his later life: "Gell had an irascible nature and a dictatorial way with both his regiment and his colleagues in the county administration which made enemies and provoked complaints to Parliament. He also became disaffected with the Parliamentary commanders in the Northern and East Midlands regions and was out of sympathy with the political direction taken by the regime which emerged after the king's surrender in 1646, as he argued in a petition to the king at Charles II's restoration. A further cause of disillusionment for Gell was Parliament's reluctance to compensate him for losses he incurred in fighting the war. In 1646 his regiment was disbanded and in 1648 he was relieved of all appointments. He moved permanently to London, having previously transferred his estate to his son John, with whom he kept up a regular correspondence on politics, family matters and the running of the estate. In London he made contact with the king, asking pardon for his part in the war and making a gift of £300. In 1650 he was tried and found guilty of misprision of treason, in other words of knowing of a royalist plot and not revealing it to the authorities. He was sentenced to life imprisonment and confiscation of his estates. The authorities were thwarted in their attempt to confiscate the Hopton estate since John Gell the younger was able to prove its transfer to himself. Gell was imprisoned in the Tower of London but released in 1653 on grounds of ill health; he took no further part in politics during the Commonwealth period. He was pardoned by Charles II at the Restoration in 1660 and given an appointment at the royal court." (www.wikipedia.com)

Elizabeth died in 1644. John married again to Mary Stanhope, the widow of Sir John Stanhope. The marriage lasted less than a year and the couple separated in late 1648. : "Gell's wife Elizabeth had died in 1644 and in December 1647 Gell had remarried. His second wife was Mary Stanhope, widow of one of his Derbyshire enemies, Sir John Stanhope of Elvaston. Gell had married Stanhope for payment of Ship Money in events described by Mary in a petition to Parliament. This unlikely alliance lasted less than a year and the couple separated in late 1648. Mary died in 1653. Gell died in 1671 and his body was carried in procession back to Wirksworth where he was buried in the church there." (www.wikipedia.com)

A history of Hopton Hall mentions John: "During the Civil War, in 1644 the house was sacked by royalists and in 1650 Sir John Gell, the commander of local parliamentary forces was indicted for treason and imprisoned in the Tower of London for two years. The Gell family had to pay heavy fines, the family fortunes nosedived and there was no money to pay for repairs or improvement to the house until ...the end of the eighteenth century" (Historic Hopton Hall & Gardens)

John Gell died in 1671, leaving a will:

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF THOMAS GELL AND MILLICENT SACHEVERELL

Thomas Gell was born in about 1532 in Derbyshire, the son of Ralph Gell and Godeth Ashby. He married late in life, to Millicent Sacheverell 14 April 1588 in Kirk Ireton, Derbyshire.

Thomas owned a large estate in the Wirksworth area, and had lead mining interest in the area.

Thomas died 11 November 1594, just before the birth of his second son. Millicent married John Curzon soon afterward.

"Gell's father, Thomas had married late in life. His first wife, Margaret Needham, died childless and he then married in 1588 Millicent Sacheverel, daughter of a prosperous lead merchant and smelter. This was a strategic alliance for a proprietor of lead mines. Thomas died within a few months of his son John's birth in 1593 and his pregnant widow was safely delivered of another child, Thomas. Thomas Gell (1594-1656) was to live a single life in London as a lawyer, where he proved of great service to his brother John. Millicent did not wait long to find a father for her two infant orphans and remarried well, to John Curzon of Kedleston, one of the oldest families in Derbyshire, bearing him a son and heir. The Curzons were rather greater land-owners than the Gells but, like them, they too had lead mining interests in the county." (Nonconformity in Derbyshire: A Study in Dissent, 1600-1800, Stephen Orchard)

Thomas and Millicent had the following children: *1. John, christened 2 July 1593; married Elizabeth Willoughby 22 January 1609; died 26 October 1671; 2. Thomas

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF RALPH GELL AND GODETH ASHBY

Ralph Gell was born in about 1491, the son of John Gell. He married Godeth Ashby. Godeth was the daughter of Nicholas Ashby of Willoughby on the Wolds. (Oxford Dictionary of National Biography)

"At a Court held at Wirksworth on November 6th 1532 George Hennage, Dean of Lincoln admitted the surrender of a fourth part of the lands of Roger More, a draper of Derby, to Richard Wigley of Middleton. In this transaction Ralph Gell of Hopton was one of Roger More's attorneys." (Some Notes on the Wigley Family of Derbyshire, by Derek Wigley; Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 3)

Ralph purchased the manor of Hopton in 1553.

Godeth died, and Ralph married again to Emma Beresford: "After the death of Godeth Ashby, his first wife, Ralph Gell of Hopton married Emma Beresford, by whom he had four daughters, Elizabeth who married Henry Wigley of Middleton, Helena who married John Wigley of the Gatehouse in Wirksworth, Mary who married Thomas Hurt and Lucy who married Edward Lowe." (Some Notes on the Wigley Family of Derbyshire, by Derek Wigley; Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 3)

HALL ANCESTORS

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF HENRY HALL AND ELIZABETH ROLLESTON

Henry Hall was born in about 1550, the son of Robert Hall. He married 1) unknown; then 2) Elizabeth Rolleston in about 1573 in Leicestershire.

Elizabeth was born in about 1553 in Leicestershire, the daughter of Richard Rolleston and Elizabeth Ballard. Elizabeth's mother, also named Elizabeth, married Robert Hall after the death of her husband, becoming Henry Hall's stepmother. This brought Henry into a close relationship with his Elizabeth Rolleston, his step-sister, and the two married.

Henry was involved in a complaint filed by William Ballard against Henry and his mother-in-law (and stepmother) Elizabeth on 12 November 1594. William Ballard was Elizabeth's brother.

"Of Wymeswold, Leicestershire, gent. About 40 years ago he was seized in fee taylor of a certain capital messuage and divers lands in Ratcliffe on Trent in Nottinghamshire of the yearly value of £40 and above. He granted the same to one Rolleston, gent. of Ratcliffe, now deceased and Elizabeth, his then wife, and their assigns, during the lifetime of Elizabeth, at a yearly rent of £4 - 10 shillings. At the time of the lease, there were in the mansion house several parcels of goods and household stuffs to the value of £40 and above, belonging to the plaintiff. However he was content that they should remain in the house for the use of the Rollestons, but that they should deliver them to Ballard and his assigns if asked to do so. After Rolleston's death, Elizabeth married Robert Hall, now also deceased, who lived in the property until his death. He was also seized of a property in the Manor of Cortlingstocke (Costock) in the County of Nottingham, with appurtenances and various closes and pasture grounds. In return for living in the property above, with Elizabeth, Robert Hall granted the plaintiff certain closes or pasture ground in Costock called the Rough Close, the Middle Close and the House Close, to have during the time that Robert and Elizabeth Hall should enjoy the property in Ratcliffe on Trent. He had the lands until the death of Robert when Elizabeth, still living in Ratcliffe and Henry Hall, son and heir of Robert, took back the lands and denied him possession and the yearly rents and profits. Elizabeth has also handed over some of the goods and household stuffs, before mentioned, to persons unknown. He has asked the Halls several times, in a friendly manner, to restore to him the closes and pasture grounds. They maintain that he held the lands by virtue of a private agreement between himself and Robert Hall, Elizabeth only acting as a witness. He has also asked her to deliver the goods and household stuffs, but she has refused. He cannot prove his lease, or the existence of the household goods, because of the lack of witnesses (most being dead). Asks for a writ of subpoena to Elizabeth and Henry for them to answer the bill of complaint." (Bill of Complaint of William Ballard of Ratcliffe on Trent, Nottinghamshire v. Elizabeth Hall)

Henry and Elizabeth had the following children: 1. Thomas; *2. Elizabeth, born about 1585 in Costock; married Richard Wigley 14 April 1605 in Costock, Nottinghamshire; 3. Benjamin; 4. Robert; 5. Henry; 6. Jane, married Edward Lowe.

Costock

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF ROBERT HALL AND ELIZABETH BALLARD

Robert Hall was born in about 1520 of Costock. He married the widow Elizabeth (Ballard) Rolleston. Elizabeth was the daughter of Edward Ballard and Katherine Noble. She had married Richard Rolleston in about 1549, having six children. Some time after 1559 Richard Rolleston died, and Elizabeth married Robert Hall.

Robert was mentioned in a history of Costock: "Robert Hall purchased also of John Horton, and Mary his Wife, who had Licence to alienate four Mess.two Cotag. six Tofts, six Gardens, four Orchards, three Hundred Acres of Land, &c. 22 Sept. 9 Eliz. (1567) and had a Recovery in Michaelmas Term, at which Time there were others for less Parcels, as John Leek, and William Bolton, against William Leek; and the same against Robert Leek, who called, &c. John Bowes." (British History Online: Costock)

Elizabeth died as a widow, leaving a will written 4 September 1606 and proven 23 June 1609. The will provides information about the family relationships.

ANCESTORS OF ELIZABETH GELL

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF RALPH GELL AND EMMA BERESFORD

Ralph Gell was born in about 1491, the son of John Gell. He married 1) Godeth Ashby, then 2) Emma Beresford, the daughter of Hugh Beresford of Newton Grange and Agnes Longsdon.

"At a Court held at Wirksworth on November 6th 1532 George Hennage, Dean of Lincoln admitted the surrender of a fourth part of the lands of Roger More, a draper of Derby, to Richard Wigley of Middleton. In this transaction Ralph Gell of Hopton was one of Roger More's attorneys." (Some Notes on the Wigley Family of Derbyshire, by Derek Wigley; Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 3)

Ralph purchased the manor of Hopton in 1553.

Godeth died, and Ralph married again to Emma Beresford: "After the death of Godeth Ashby, his first wife, Ralph Gell of Hopton married Emma Beresford, by whom he had four daughters, Elizabeth who married Henry Wigley of Middleton, Helena who married John Wigley of the Gatehouse in Wirksworth, Mary who married Thomas Hurt and Lucy who married Edward Lowe." (Some Notes on the Wigley Family of Derbyshire, by Derek Wigley; Derbyshire Miscellany, Vol 3)

Anno Dei 1626*

The Wylde/Wilde family are mentioned in Archaeological Gleanings in the Neighborhood of Codnor Castle: "The Wilde family of Loscoe used the name of Zouch for three generations. They owned a small estate at Loscoe, and leased minerals for their furnaces at Loscoe in 1650. They resided at one time in a farmhouse about half a mile from the castle, and were registered at Heanor as "of Codnor Castle," meaning the Liberty of Codnor Castle. It is said that John Woolley, the original clockmaker of Codnor was apprenticed to John Wild, of Nottingham, who probably might be of the family of the Wilds of Codnor."

Descendants of Robert Wylde became clockmakers: "*The Wildes or Wylds are generally reckoned as Nottingham makers for three generations, but the first, John, was born at Codnor in 1678. apprenticed 1691-1696. He set up on his own account in 1697. He later moved to Nottingham and died in 1760, but not before marrying, in 1710, Rachel, daughter of one Samuel Woolley of Codnor, a substantial farmer. FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF ROBERT WYLDE

Robert Wylde was born in about 1550 of Heanor.

Robert and his wife had the following children: *1. Robert, born in about 1575; married Ursula; buried 21 December 1627 in Heanor; 2. William; married Helen.

SOURCES: Heanor parish records; will of Robert Wylde, 1627.

Other early Wylde in the Heanor parish records are:

- William Wylde who married Helen, and had children Thomas (1602) and William (1606) christened in Heanor. This is likely Robert's brother, William Wylde of Codnor, as mentioned in Robert's will.
- Henry, buried 9 September 1597 in Heanor.
- James Wylde left an inventory dated 2 August 1621, in which Robert Wylde was one of the men taking the inventory of James' goods after his death. A probate note on the inventory lists Margerie Wylde as James' widow.
- Ellenore Wylde left a will dated 1622, mentioning that she was the widow of George Wylde, and leaving her estate to her son George Wylde. Ellenore Boughton married George Wylde 21 October 1577 in Heanor.

FOWLKE ANCESTORS

JOHN FOWLKE AND HARRIET RAYNOR

John Fowlke was born 26 December 1803, in Nottingham, Nottinghamshire, England. He was the son of John Fowlke and Hannah Mee. A history of John Fowlke states: "John Fowlke was the son of John Fowlke and Hannah Mee, the eighth child in a family of twelve children. He was a wood turner by trade while residing in England. He married Harriet Raynor June 14, 1823 in Nottingham, England." (Life History of John Fowlke, II; www.fowlkefamily.org)

John married Harriet Raynor in 1823 in Nottingham. Harriet Raynor was born in Nottingham on 10 September 1803, the daughter of Catherine Frost Raynor. Eleven children were born to John and Harriet in Nottingham: Catherine Elizabeth, John, Harriet, Drucilla, Eliza, Emma, William, Louisa, Frederick, Sarah, and Clara. Harriet and Emma died before becoming adults.

John and Harriet had the following children: 1. Catherine Elizabeth, born 24 Sept. 1824, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married Thomas Windell; died 1912; 2. John., born. 20 Apr. 1826, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married Susannah Bonner; died Apr. 1901; 3. Harriet, born 20 Sept. 1828, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; died 25 Mar. 1842; unmarried; 4. Drucilla, born 22 Dec. 1830, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married 22 June 1856, William Aston; died 28 Jan. 1877; 5. Eliza, born 20 Apr. 1832, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married 5 Jan 1851, Elias Aston; died 31 Jan. 1917; 6. Emma, born 4 Aug. 1836, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; died 10 Aug. 1839; unmarried; 7. William, born 11 Nov. 1837, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married 25 Mar. 1860, Rachel Chapman; 8. Louisa, born 26 May 1840, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married (1) 9 Feb. 1862, William Marrott; married (2) 8 Feb 1901, Lorenzo Waldram; died 29 Jan. 1913; 9. Frederick, born 21 July 1842, Nottingham, Nottingham, England, married 17 Nov. 1866 Elizabeth Cook; died 8 Apr. 1905; 10. Sarah Ann, born 14 Feb. 1844, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married 22 Feb. 1862, John Truscott; died 20 Aug. 1919; 11. Clara, born 28 Dec. 1847, Nottingham, Nottingham, England; married 10 Feb. 1864, James Cullimore; died 13 Nov. 1927.

The Fowlkes are found in the 1841 census in Snenton, Nottinghamshire (Sneinton is a southeastern suburb of Nottingham):

John Fowkes, age 35, occupation - turner

Harriott, age 35

Elizabeth, age 15, lace mender

John, age 15, ap turner

Harrott, age 13, lace mender

Drucilla, age 11, lace mender

Eliza, age 9

William, age 3

Louisa, age 1

The Fowlke family are found at 34 Island Street in St. Mary's parish, Nottingham in the 1851 census. The census shows:

John Fowlke, head, married, 50, Engeneer, born in Nottingham
Harriett Fowlke, wife, married, 49, born in Nottingham
Elizabeth Fowlke, daughter, 26, Lace mender, born in Nottingham
Drucilla Fowlke, daughter, 20, Lace mender, born in Nottingham
William Fowlke, son, 15, Coach builder, born in Nottingham
Loisa Fowlke, daughter 11, Lace mender, born in Nottingham
Fredrick Fowlke, son, 8, scholar, born in Nottingham
Sarah Fowlke, daughter, 6, scholar, born in Nottingham
Clara Fowlke, daughter, 3, scholar, born in Nottingham

A history of John Fowlke describes how the family was converted to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints: "The gospel of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints was brought to the attention of John and Harriet by their daughter Louisa. Several members of the family joined the church. Louisa joined the church on Dec 7, 1854. John and three other children were baptized on February 24, 1855." (Life History of John Fowlke, II; www.fowlkefamily.org) This caused some division in the family: "Three other children, Catherine Elizabeth, John, and William remained in England. John and William were engineers. They refused to have anything to do with the family after they joined the church. They were both strong and powerful men. One of them whipped the wrestling champ in a fight in a public house." (Life History of John Fowlke, II; www.fowlkefamily.org)

A history of Clara Fowlke shares these details of their conversion: "One of the girls when going home from work passed by the place the Mormon missionaries held their meetings. She was attracted by the Elders' singing. It so impressed her that each evening she tried to be present when the Mormon meeting was conducted so that she might learn and listen to their singing and teachings. Someone who knew her folks told them of seeing her there and warning them of the Elders. Her parents then tried to stop her from going to these meetings but she was so enthused she attended anyway. Deciding that if she insisted on going, she must not go alone, they sent a sister along with her. When they returned, this sister, too, was as much impressed as the first. Other sisters went and finally the mother was persuaded to accompany them to the meetings. She, too, could feel the truthfulness of the things spoken by the elders. Her husband, however, could not be persuaded to attend with them, but one day they invited the elders to their home. There he met the elders and he, too, was converted to the truthfulness of this everlasting gospel." (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org) Later in her life Clara said, "I am very thankful that some kind elder took the gospel to my parents, which was the means of my coming to this goodly land, the land which the Lord wished the saints to gather to, and that I have raised my family here, and for this I am very thankful." (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org)

Clara's story also tells about her early life, and the need to work as a child: "At the age of six, Clara started to work in a lace and bead factory. She received 12 cents per week wages and became very skilled at her work. While still very young she would take her sister's place as overseer in her sister's absence." (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org) Her brother Frederick said, "The Fowlke men would leave for work in the morning, before daylight, and would return home after dark." (Life History of Frederick Fowlke) The entire family worked hard to support themselves.

The Latter-Day Saint missionaries contacted the family. John and Harriet, and five of their children embraced the gospel. Louisa was the first to be baptized in 1854. She was only fourteen years old at the time. Her father John was baptized in 1855. It is not known when Harriet was baptized. Of the other children, Eliza and her husband, Elias Aston, were baptized in 1856; Frederick, Sarah, and Clara were also baptized. Like thousands of other British converts, the family was "waiting for the missionaries to find them, and when they heard the message, they believed, were baptized, told their friends, adored and cared for those who had brought the message. and prepared to leave the Babylon of the world for the kingdom of God being built in America...Beside being willing to accept the missionaries' testimonies about the restoration of the original Church of Christ spoken of in the Bible, these British Saints also obeyed the counsel to gather to Zion. Before the end of the century, some fifty-five thousand had crossed the ocean and the continental U.S. to make their homes in the West. Not all were enthusiastic to come, but most, perhaps the most converted, scrimped and saved until they had enough to pay passage for a family." ("Truth Prevailing"; Douglas F. Tobler; Ensign, July 1987)

To aid the immigrants in their desire to join the Saints in Zion, the Church in 1849 created the Perpetual Emigration Fund. The fund helped the costs of the trip, but the family was expected to reimburse the fund after settling in Utah. John and Harriet, and the younger children immigrated to America on the ship Underwriter. The European Emigration Card Index shows:

Foulkes, John (57) Turner
Harriet (57) Wife
Frederick (18) Joiner
Sarah Ann (15) Spinster
Clara (13)
Louise (20)
Arthur (2) Louise's son

The ship sailed from Liverpool on April 23, 1861. On board ship "the agent appointed a president and two counselors (usually missionaries returning to America) to preside over the company. After receiving the sustaining vote of the group, the presidency divided the company into wards or branches, usually along the lines of the travelers's home districts. Each ward or branch was then provided with presiding officers and assigned a separate portion of the ship...Once underway, the emigrants were expected to rise at an early hour, clean their quarters, assemble for prayer, and then eat breakfast. Contemporary observers were impressed by the prevailing order, cleanliness, and decency aboard Mormon ships". Charles Dickens described the Mormon emigrants in a chapter of The Uncommon Traveler:

"They had not been a couple of hours on board when they established their own police, made their own regulations, and set their own watches at all the hatchways. Before nine o'clock the ship was as orderly and quiet as a man-of-war...there was no disorder, hurry, or difficulty...I afterwards learned that a Despatch was sent home by the captain, before he struck out into the wide Atlantic, highly extolling the behavior of these Emigrants and the perfect order and propriety of all their social arrangements."

"Converts often arrived on the American frontier with only a short time to prepare for the trek to Utah...To economize, emigrants were expected to purchase cotton fabric for the wagon covers in England and stitch it during the voyage." (The Mormon Experience; Leonard J. Arrington). The Fowlkes's ship took six weeks to cross the ocean. Another passenger on the Underwriter, Charles W. Penrose awoke one morning to find that a mother rat had given birth in his shoe during the night. (Life on Board a Mormon Emigrant Ship; David H. Pratt and Paul F. Smart). Sometimes the ship made no progress because of the lack of wind to fill the sails.. They rejoiced when they arrived in New York on May 22.

From the Millennial Star: "The clipper ship Underwriter cleared on the 22nd instant, and sailed on the evening of the 23rd, from this port for New York, having 624 Saints on board, under the presidency of Elder Milo Andrus, assisted by Elders Homer Duncan and C.W. Penrose as counselors. Presidents Lyman, Rich, and Cannon visited the ship on Sunday, the 21st, as she lay in the river, and held a meeting, giving the Saints their parting blessing and many choice instructions relative to their journey. The unanimity and good feeling which pervaded the deliverance having arrived, tended to make a fine and intelligent looking company double interesting; and we have no doubt that, under the wise direction of President Andrus their ocean trip will prove both agreeable and instructive. May God bless them in their journeyings onwards to the home of the Saints in the valley of the mountains!" (Millennial Star, May 4, 1861)

Clara Fowlke remembered: "Crossing the sea was the worst part of the trip. I was so very sick all the way. We could not eat the rations, thick fat bacon and sea biscuits (hard tack as it is now called). I never tasted bread for a month. I did wish I could have a little piece of bread." (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org)

"The clipper ship Underwriter sailed from Liverpool, with 624 Saints, under the presidency of Milo Andrus, Homer Duncan and Charles William Penrose. The company arrived at New York May 22nd, and at Florence (Nebraska) June 2nd." (Millennial Star, Apr 23, 1861)

The family then proceeded to the outfitting station at Council Bluffs, Iowa. At the outfitting station the immigrants were provided with "one wagon, two yoke of oxen, two cows, and a tent." (The Mormon Experience; Arrington). The Journal History of the Church shows "John Foulke and family" joined Capt. Ira Eldredge's ox train to travel over the plains to Salt Lake City. (Journal History, Sept. 15, 1861). The Fowlke family was unaccustomed to the hardships and way of life that lay before them. They were city people and used to city life. They cared for and drove an ox team across the plains. The family walked alongside the wagon most of the 1500 miles. When at Florence, Nebraska, the Saints suffered much from the severe rain and thunder storms. They arrived at Salt Lake City on 15 September 1861.

It was with relief and joy that the family found that "whether they arrived by wagon, handcart, or railroad, the immigrants were greeted warmly in Utah...The already established Saints were under instructions to take the new arrivals into their homes, care for them, and provide employment until they could begin to farm or practice their own occupations. The sense of gathering was confirmed by the food and festivities that welcomed immigrants in Emigration Square. Soon afterward they dispersed to the colonies scattered throughout the Great Basin. The dispersal began with a "placement meeting" attended by all local bishops. Each was asked how many families could be absorbed into his ward for the winter and what special skill were desirable." (The Mormon Experience; Arrington).

Their arrival is recounted in a history of Clara Fowlke: "The company arrived in Salt Lake City on September 15, 1861. The Fowlke family stayed there at the camping grounds overnight and next morning pushed on to Pleasant Grove, to the part now called Lindon. William Marriot, who was their teamster, took them to Holman's when they arrived in Pleasant Grove. Sister Nancy Holman cooked supper for them, chicken and biscuits, the first good meal they had had in five months" (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org)

John Fowlke's skills as a machinist and engineer were needed in Zion. Leonard Arrington in The Mormon Experience tells us, "Suffused with a desire to promote economic independence, the church became involved in nearly every important industrial development during the first two decades of settlement...Most American-born Mormons were lifelong farmers possessing few industrial skills. Foreign converts, on the other hand, tended to be craftsmen and mechanics, reflecting in the variety of their skills the higher stage of industrialization Europe had achieved. Quick to recognize the importance of this expertise to his dream of building an independent commonwealth, Brigham Young instructed church agents and missionaries in Great Britain to seek out skilled workers, especially iron manufacturers, metal workers, textile manufacturers, and potters. Such persons were to be encouraged to "emigrate immediately...in preference to anyone else." Each of the major industrial enterprises attempted by the church during the first decade drew upon European converts for technical expertise."

The family settled in Pleasant Grove in 1861. It was a peaceful farming community in the Utah Valley, founded in 1850, with groves of cottonwood trees, and sparkling streams of fresh water. "That fall they made for themselves a dugout to live in. For a broom they had a bunch of little willows tied together. At night the fire had to be banked so there would be red coals to start the fire in the morning as there were no matches. If the coals were out in the morning, it was necessary for one of them to walk about a mile to get some red coals to start the fire again." (James and Clara Fowlke Cullimore -- Brief History, on familysearch.org) It appears that John married a plural wife, Elizabeth Carlin in the Endowment House in Salt Lake City on 8 July 1865.

In the 1870 census of Pleasant Grove, John and Harriet are found living next to their son Frederick and his family, along with Elizabeth Fowlke, age 57.

In the 1880 census of Pleasant Grove, John and Harriet Fowlke are shown living in Pleasant Grove next to their son, Frederick and his family, and their daughter Clara, now married to James Cullimore. Elizabeth is shown as a boarder and is using her maiden name.

James and Clara's daughter, Elizabeth, remembers that when just a small girl she loved to go to her grandmother's house and wash off all the chairs with a rag. Daughter Eliza and her husband Elias Aston were near neighbors. John worked as a machinist and engineer, and a farmer. John and Harriet, like other British Saints, "most of whom gained no fame except that chiseled into the lives of *a grateful and expanding posterity, became part of the bedrock of the growing kingdom." (The Mormon Experience; Arrington). John was active in the priesthood, and was ordained a High Priest. His photograph in Pioneers and Prominent Men of Utah shows a man of determination and courage. The description which accompanies the photo states:*

"FOWLKE, JOHN (son of John Fowlke and Anna May, both of Nottingham, Eng.). Born Dec. 26, 1803. Came to Utah Sept. 17, 1861, Horace S. Eldredge company.

Married Harriet Raynor about 1823 at Nottingham, Eng. (daughter of Mr. Raynor and Catherine Frost, of Nottingham, pioneers Sept. 17, 1861, Horace S. Eldredge company). High priest. Machinist and engineer; farmer. Died at Lindon." (Pioneers and Prominent Men of Utah; Frank Esshom).

He died 9 March 1886, at his home in Lindon, and was buried in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery. Harriet lived two more years, and died in Mt. Pleasant on 13 September 1888. A biography of her son Frederick said, "She was at the home of her daughter Mrs. John Truscott at the time of her death." (Life History of Frederick Fowlke) Harriet was buried in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery with her husband.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF BENJAMIN MEE AND REBECCA MOORE

Benjamin Mee was christened 20 September 1693 in Eastwood, Nottinghamshire, the son of Thomas and Rebekah Mee. Eastwood is about nine miles from Heanor. It is a village and parish in Nottinghamshire on the border of Derbyshire. Eastwood was the birthplace of D.H. Lawrence. There was a local coal mine, and later stocking-making industry. Benjamin worked as a labourer.

Benjamin and Hannah Mee had twin sons, Isaac and Jacob. Benjamin's name had been transcribed in the IGI as Canaman or Conan, however the original parish register for Heanor clearly shows his name as Benjamin. The parish register (FHL #2104171) says: "Isaack & Jacob sonns of Benjamin and Hannah Meas of Little Eaton baptized July 22".

Baptism record for Isaac and Jacob Mee in Heanor: "Isaack & Jacob sonns of Benjamin and Hannah Meas of Little Eaton baptized July 22 Received Aug 4"

No marriage record has been found for Benjamin and Hannah, and no christening records for other children of Benjamin and Hannah Mee. No burial record has been found for Hannah Mee.

A marriage is recorded for Benjamin Mee of Eastwood and Rebekah Moore of Heanor on 30 April 1719 in South Wingfield, Derbyshire. Heanor and Eastwood are about two miles apart. Benjamin and Rebecca then had children: Elizabeth (christened 1719 in Eastwood), Benjamin (1729 in Horsley, shown as "of Little Eaton"), John (1730 in St. Alkmunds, Derby), Joseph (1736 in St. Alkmunds, Derby), and Hannah (1738 of St. Alkmunds, Derby). A daughter, Rachel, of Benjamin and Rebecca was buried in 1737 in Eastwood, shown as "of Little Eaton". Rebekka Mee, the wife of Benjamin Mee "of Eton" died and was buried 6 February 1776 in St. Alkmunds, Derby.

Additionally, these children were christened in Horsley, Derbyshire, of Benjamin Mee, with no mother listed: Anna (1725 in Horsley, "of Little Eaton"), Josiah (1728 in Horsley, shown as "of Little Eaton"), and John (1731 in Horsley, "of Little Eaton"). Horsley is about two miles north of Little Eaton.

Was there more than one Benjamin Mee in Little Eaton? Or did the parish clerk erroneously record Hannah as the mother of Isaac and Jacob, instead of Rebecca? The answer is found in the will of Samuel Mee of Horsley, written in 1761. Samuel Mee of Kilbourn in the parish of Horsley, Derbyshire, milner left a will written 9 October 1761 and proven 7 November 1761. He left bequests to his six brothers and sister: "Also I give, devise and bequeath unto my six bredren Josiah, John, Benjamin, Isack, Jacob, Joseph Mee, and my sister Liddy the sum of seven pounds of lawfull British money." All the rest and residue was left to his wife Elizabeth Mee, who was also named executor. Samuel's bequest ties together Isaac and Jacob with the aboved named children for Benjamin and Rebecca, along with those only listed as Benjamin's children. (Note: Liddy is a nickname for Elizabeth). John of 1730, Hannah, Anna and Rachel were not mentioned in Samuel's will, and may have died before 1761.

Isaac and Jacob's mother Hannah was actually Rebecca. Rebecca was the daughter of Josiah and Rebecca Mee of Heanor. Josiah was a miller, and left a will dated 1721. Rebecca, his widow, left a will dated 1740. Both wills mentioned their daughter Rebecca Mee. (Lichfield and Coventry Wills, www.findmypast.co.uk)

Benjamin Mee of Eastwood married Rebecca Moore of Heanor on 30 April 1719 in South Wingfield, Derbyshire.

*Marriage record for Benjamin Mee and Rebecca Moore in South Wingfield:
"Benjamin Mee of Eastwood and Rebecca Moore of Heanor were married April 30th 1719"*

So, in total, Benjamin and Rebecca had the following children: 1. Elizabeth (Liddy), christened 24 June 1719 in Eastwood, Nottingham; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 2. Samuel, born about 1721; married Elizabeth Langton 1 January 1744 in Morley, Derbyshire; died 1761, leaving a will; 3. Anna, christened 29 November 1725 in Horsley, Derbyshire, "of Little Eaton in the parish of St. Alkmunds, Derby"; 4. Josiah, christened 3 June 1728 in Horsley, "de Little Eaton"; married Mary Moore 18 May 1760 in Spondon, Derbyshire; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 5. Benjamin, christened 17 February 1729 in Horsley "of Little Eaton"; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 6. John, christened 20 November 1730 in St. Alkmunds, Derby; 7. John, christened 4 March 1731/2 in Horsley, "of Little Eaton"; married Hannah Garrott 1 June 1753 in Horsley; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; *8. Jacob, christened 22 July 1734 in Heanor, Derbyshire, "of Little Eaton" (twin); married Catherine Abbott 1 November 1756 in St. Alkmunds, Derbyshire; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 9. Isaac, christened 22 July 1734 in Heanor, Derbyshire, "of Little Eaton" (twin); mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 10. Joseph, christened 2 March 1736 in St. Alkmunds, Derby; married Jane Hibbart 25 July 1767 in Morley, Derbyshire; mentioned in brother Samuel's will of 1761; 11. Rachel, buried 1737 in Eastwood, "of Little Eaton"; 12. Hannah, christened 29 December 1738 in St. Alkmunds, Derby.

Rebecca died and was buried 6 February 1776 in St. Alkmunds, Derby.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF THOMAS AND RACHEL MEE

Thomas Mee was christened 23 March 1632 in Eastwood, the son of Laurence and Susanna Mee. He married Rachel. His occupation was laborer.

Thomas and his father were Quakers. "The Mee family during that period were Quakers and a large group of Quakers were well established in the geographical triangle formed between Nottingham, Derby and Mansfield. In 1689 Lawrence and Thomas Mee were allowed to affirm instead of taking the oath of allegiance. Thomas was brought before the church court for failing to attend divine service for four consecutive weeks." (Researcher Ray Marsden) About forty Quakers were reported to be in Eastwood in 1669.

From The Sufferings of the Quakers in Nottinghamshire, 1649-1689: In 1676, Thomas Mee testified in court in behalf of William Day of Newmenleas near Eastwood who was fined for preaching.

The Toleration Act of 1689 allowed the Quakers in England to affirm instead of taking the oath and the following made Statutory Declaration:

Eastwood - Elis. England, Willm. Day, Jos. Potter, Lawr. Mee and Thom. Mee

Quakers in Nottinghamshire

"The early Quaker movement tended to be centred in the north of the county of Nottinghamshire, around Mansfield...The beginnings of the Quaker movement can be directly ascribed to one man, namely George Fox who was born in 1624 at Drayton-in-the-Clay, Leicestershire where he was an apprentice shoemaker. George took to 'wandering' around the Leicestershire, Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire countryside in his search for God whilst at the same time trying to convert the local populace to his way of thinking. It was on one of these 'wanderings' that George visited a meeting at Broughton, (it is unclear whether or not it was Nether Broughton or Upper Broughton), of Baptist Separatists, who were also known as 'Shattered' Baptists. At this meeting George had a vision of 'The Inner Light' that he believed was a divine spark of light which was from God and was to be found in every person. This Inner Light made all men equal before God and their lives were likewise precious. This was very radical for 17th century England. Certainly the established church would not agree with such sentiments.

Fired with that zeal that is the mark of the zealot George began his crusade to help others to discover their 'Inner Light'. So it was that in the 1640's he settled in Mansfield and was soon recruiting members to his new creed. It was in Mansfield that George made his first converts...From Mansfield George spread his message and gained followers throughout the country as further people were converted to the creed. George Fox continued on his 'wanderings', trying to bring enlightenment to other souls, often succeeding and often finding himself inside jail again for his troubles. Indeed, there were very few years during the 1650's when George didn't enjoy a spell of imprisonment at some time or another in some English town or city's jail. Nevertheless the Quaker movement flourished, thousands were converted to George Fox's religious views. Indeed, such were the numbers being recruited into the creed that that period of time was christened the 'Quaker Explosion'. Equally a great many of them found themselves imprisoned for their beliefs. At one time there were around a thousand Quakers in jails up and down the country. Many also had to pay swingeing fines that left them all but destitute. The authorities were exceptionally hostile towards the movement, fearing, not unnaturally, that if the movement managed to get itself seriously established then it would pose a very real threat to the established church and government.

Because of their beliefs Quakers were in constant danger of falling foul of the law of the land. The penalties that were imposed by the State when the law was broken verged on the Draconian. To live the life of a devout Quaker called for a considerable degree of fortitude and determination. The tribulations that were visited upon the Quaker movement because of their faith were called 'sufferings'. These 'sufferings' were recorded in the form of pamphlets and other literature and these were distributed amongst the followers, hopefully giving them strength and courage to pursue their religious calling.

One way in which the State attempted to combat the perceived threat that Quakerism posed was by imposing laws specifically aimed against the movement. In this respect a whole raft of laws were introduced, covering all manner of offences from alleged treason at one end to meeting illegally at the other. The penalties for transgressing these new laws could very severe, ranging from transportation, imprisonment and fines. Quaker meetings were open to all so it was a simple matter for the powers that be to send a spy along to any meeting and then inform the authorities of any wrongdoing. Informants were often entitled to a reward so there was never a shortage of willing informants. The most common punishment for any lawbreaking was a fine, If the fine could not be paid then goods and chattels were taken in lieu. This had the effect of causing great financial hardship to many of the followers. It was not unknown for a Quaker to be reduced to the level of a pauper. By and large though such laws rarely have the desired effect and the Quaker movement continued to thrive. As time progressed so many of these laws fell into disrepute. It was seen that they were manifestly unfair and they were not having the desired effect. Many judges and jurors began to be sympathetic to the Quakers and the law began to be implemented with less vigour. Reducing Quakers to paupers merely placed a financial burden on the local parishes and this was in nobody's best interest.

By the time that George died the laws against groups such as the Quakers had been greatly relaxed. Indeed the Act of Toleration, which was passed in 1689 (two years before George's death) effectively ended the state persecution of Quakers."

After Robert's death, he is mentioned in the will of his brother Henry Matkyn alias Cartwright, a weaver of Duffield, written 6 October 1668: "My brother Robert Matkin children thirty pounds to be equally divided amongst them." In 1670 Henry adds an addendum leaving Robert's children thirty pounds more. His will also mentions "I give to eight silenced ministers foure poundes" and "I leave to the poore of Duffield to make that up that hath been payd frome the house wherein I now live six pounds a peace for twentie poore pepooll upon Saint Thomas Day for ever".

Robert and Ellen had the following children: 1. John, christened 14 September 1638 in Duffield; mentioned in father's will of 1661; a will was left by John Matkyn alias Cartwright, weaver of Shottle in Duffield parish in 1673. He leaves bequests to his wife Ffrances and daughters Anna and Sarah. Edward Bramley was named as one of his executors; 2. Robert, christened 26 April 1642 in Duffield; mentioned in father's will of 1661; married Sibella; had children Samuel, Joseph, Mary and Grace; Robert held a copyhold in the Manor of Duffield in 1671; buried 14 March 1706 in Duffield. Robert was mentioned in the will of his father-in-law Robert Clay in 1678; *3. Isabell, born about 1644; mentioned in father's will of 1661; married Edward Bramley 18 April 1664 in Duffield;

4. William, mentioned in his father's will of 1661.

Robert he died August the ninth 1678.

Robert Clay dyed August the 9th 1678, he which first brought this book first to this hous.

The Samuel Matkin alias Cartwright mentioned at the top of the page is the son of Robert Matkin alias Cartwright, and was christened 1662 in Duffield. He died in 1738, leaving a will mentioning his wife Grace, sons Samuel, Joseph and Timothy, and daughter Grace.

The Robert Clay mentioned at the bottom of the page as dying in 1678 was Robert Matkin alias Cartwright's father-in-law, the father of Sibbella his wife. Robert Clay left a will mentioning his son Robert Clay, his son's wife Sarah, his eldest daughter Elizabeth, his younger daughter Hannah, his daughter Sibbella and her husband Robert Matkin, and Robert and Sibbella's sons Samuel and Joseph (their second son), and daughter Grace. Robert Matkin and Robert Clay are named as executors for the will.

The story about Robert (Samuel's father) using the name of Matkin instead of Cartwright is a bit confusing, as the family started using the name of Matkin alias Cartwright some time after the death of William Cartwright in 1587 and before the deaths and subsequent wills of his sons William and Robert Matkin alias Cartwright in 1620-1630. The story on the Bible page may have been family lore to explain the name change.

The biggest mystery is the story about Samuel's father, a Puritan, being killed by a Cavalier (Royalist) soldier coming home from a conventicle (an unlawful religious meeting) in Duffield. Samuel's father Robert (christened 1643) died and was buried in 1706, a bit late for a Puritan/Cavalier conflict. The English Civil War was 1642-51, followed by Cromwellian rule from 1653 to 1659. In 1660 Charles II became the new monarch. The Cavalier Parliament was in power from 1661 to 1679. The Toleration Act was passed in 1689 in England, granting freedom of worship to Nonconformists. It is more likely that it was Samuel's grandfather, also named Robert Matkin alias Cartwright (christened 1603) who died in 1661, just after Charles took the throne. Robert (1603) is mentioned in his brother Henry's will in 1670, and Henry also makes comments related to a bequest to "eight silenced ministers" which may show Nonconformist beliefs on his part. Samuel was descended from three generations of Robert Matkin alias Cartwrights, and the story may have been applied to the wrong Robert. It is most likely that, if the family story is true, the Puritan killed by a Cavalier was Samuel's grandfather Robert Matkin Alias Cartwright (christened 1603), husband of Ellen, who died in 1661.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF ROBERT AND ISSABELL CARTWRIGHT ALIAS MATKYN

Robert Cartwright alias Matkyn was born in about 1575 of Shottle in the parish of Duffield, and is most likely the son of William Cartwright. He married Issabell. His occupation was webster, or weaver.

*Burial record of Robert Cartwright alias Matkin in Duffield:
"bur: Robt. Matkin alias Cartwright of Shottle was buried ye 24th day".*

He died and was buried 24 June 1630, and left a will dated 17 April 1630:

Robert is mentioned in the will of his brother William Cartwright alias Matkyn, weaver of Osmaston by Ashbourne, Derbyshire, written in 1620: "Item, to Robert Cartwright my brother twentie poundes". William also mentions "my brother John". William wanted to be buried in the churchyard of Duffield, and left money to compensate the men for their pains in transporting his remains from Osmaston to Duffield.

Robert and Issabell had the following children: 1. Henry, christened 6 February 1599 in Duffield; mentioned in father's will of 1630; 2. Robert, christened the same day as Henry, 6

February 1599, must have died young; 3. William, christened 9 February 1601 in Duffield; buried 9 November 1602 in Duffield, "of Shottle"; *4. Robert, christened 5 October 1603 in Duffield, "de Shottle"; married Ellen; mentioned in father's will of 1630; died and left a will himself in 1661; 5. William, christened 9 March 1604 in Duffield, "de Shottle"; mentioned in father's will of 1630; 6. Anne, christened 21 May 1607 in Duffield, "de Shottle"; mentioned in father's will of 1630; 7. Thomas, mentioned in father's will of 1630.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF WILLIAM AND KATEREN CARTWRYGHT

William Cartwryght was born in about 1540 of Duffield. He married Kateren. His occupation was webster, or weaver. William died and left a will proven 19 December 1589, which named:

- John Cartwryght my eldyst sone
- He left "Robt Cartwryght my second sone fortie pounds of lawfull Englysh mony"
- Willm Cartwryght my thyrd sone
- Thomas Fletcher my son in law & Margreat his wyf
- Kateren Cartwryght my wyfe
- Sone Henry Cartwryght

It is interesting to note that William goes by the name Cartwright in his will of 1589, but both sons Robert and William are shown as Cartwright alias Matkyn in their wills of 1620 and 1630, and the name continues for several generations. Alias in this case might be used to differentiate from a family of the same name, to acknowledge a change of name, or to acknowledge an inheritance.

FROST ANCESTORS

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF SAMUEL RAYNOR AND CATHERINE FROST

Samuel Raynor was christened 12 September 1775 at St. Mary's, Nottingham, Nottinghamshire, England. He married Catherine Frost 30 October 1797 in St. Mary's, Nottingham. Catherine was christened 2 August 1778 in Nottingham, the daughter of Thomas Frost and Sarah Hempson.

Samuel and Catherine had the following child: 1. Elizabeth, christened 1 April 1798 in St. Mary's, Nottingham.

Samuel died 13 January 1800 in St. Nicholas, Nottingham.

Catherine had additional children, all listed in the parish registers as illegitimate, with no father listed: 2. Samuel, christened 11 April 1802 in St. Mary's, Nottingham; married 1) Eliza, 2) Harriett; occupation - framework knitter; had children Mary Ann, Catherine, John, Edward, William, Henry, Emma, George, Frederick, and Mary Ann; *3. Harriet, born 10 September 1803 in St. Mary's, Nottingham; christened 25 September 1803 in Nottingham; married John Fowlke 14 July 1823 in Radford, Nottinghamshire; emigrated to Utah in 1861; died 13 September 1888 in Mt. Pleasant, San Pete, Utah; buried in Pleasant Grove, Utah; 4. William, born in 1804 in Nottingham; died 14 December 1804; 5. William, christened 16 February 1806 in St. Mary's, Nottingham.

Several IGI records list the father of the last four children as Thomas Roper, and "not married" as the marital status. No other source is cited to explain how the connection between Thomas Roper and Catherine Frost was determined. A post on www.ancestry.co.uk says, "*Catherine Frost and Samuel Raynor married in St. Marys Parish Church October 30, 1797. Soon after their only natural child, Elizabeth, was born, April 1, 1798. Samuel died, deserted, or seemed to drop out of existence. To my knowledge, no record of his death has yet been found. I have not been able to find it. (See burial date above - 13 January 1800 in St. Nicholas' parish, Nottingham). Catherine then became the common-law wife of Thomas Roper, and they become parents of four more children. The surnames of these children are somewhat confusing, but it seems for some reason they were christened under the name Raynor. It may be because Raynor was still the lawful husband." A History of Harriet Raynor's son, Frederick gives this interesting if inaccurate ancestry: "Frederick's grandparents on his mother's side were Samuel Raynor born in about 1760 and Catherine Frost born in about 1767. Catherine's father was Thomas Roper Frost, of Nottingham, Notts. England and her mother was Ann." (Life History of Frederick Fowlke on familysearch.org.) It is interesting that the name Roper was preserved.

One Thomas Roper appears in Nottingham records: Thomas Roper, born about 1779 in Norwich, who was a clock maker in Nottingham. He married Sophia Pyne in 1801 in Nottingham, and had Henry (1803), Hannah (1804), Charlotte (1806), Hannah (1808), Sarah (1810), Elizabeth (1812), Henry (1815), Mary (1818), and Thomas (1821). He was married and having children at the same time as Catherine Frost.

Catherine Raynor died and was buried 26 May 1851 at St. Mary, Nottingham.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF THOMAS FROST AND SARAH HEMPSELL

Thomas Frost was christened 19 April 1740 in Mansfield, Nottinghamshire, the son of John Frost and Tabitha Slack. Mansfield is a town about fourteen miles north of Nottingham. It is described as "Prior to the middle of the 18th Century Mansfield was an isolated town, being surrounded by Sherwood Forest which was still populated with footpads and outlaws." In 1828, this description is given "The town is large, lighted with gas, well paved, and the houses are in general well built; the trade is flourishing; participating largely in the manufacture of stockings, bobbin-net and lace thread; considerable business is also transacted in corn and malt; and there are productive coal mines and stone quarries in the neighbourhood." (www.genuki.com)

Mansfield

Thomas married Sarah Hemsell 8 December 1763 in Mansfield. Sarah was christened 26 August 1742 in East Markham, Nottinghamshire, the daughter of Joseph Hemsell and Alice Lorrans. Thomas and Sarah had five children in Mansfield, then moved to Nottingham, where they had three more. Thomas died 26 January 1798 in St. Mary, Nottingham.

Thomas and Sarah had the following children: 1. Mary, christened 28 October 1764 in Mansfield; 2. Sarah, christened 12 April 1766 in Mansfield; married Michael Shaw 28 May 1787 in St. Nicholas, Nottingham; 3. Ann, christened 1 January 1768 in Mansfield; married William Platts 23 May 1790 in Mansfield; 4. Elizabeth, christened 5 June 1773 in Mansfield; *5. Catherine, christened 2 August 1778 in Nottingham; married Samuel Raynor 30 October 1797 in Nottingham; died 26 May 1851 in St. Mary, Nottingham; 6. Joseph, christened 20 August 1782 in Nottingham; 7. Hannah, born in about 1784 in Nottingham; buried 9 February 1786.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN FROST AND HESTER SLATER

John Frost was born in about 1670 of Mansfield. He married 1) Grace Emery 16 February 1689 in St. Nicholas, Nottingham. Grace died and was buried 24 April 1704 in Mansfield. He then married 2) Hester Slater 2 October 1704 in Mansfield. Hesther is most likely the daughter of John Slater and Catherine Strutt. Hesther, "wife of John", died and was buried 18 October 1739 in Mansfield. John Senior died and was buried 12 April 1748 in Mansfield.

John had the following children: 1. John, christened 14 January 1690 in Mansfield; 2. Sarah, christened 13 April 1692 in Mansfield; 3. Elizabeth, christened 1 September 1695 in Mansfield; 4. William, christened 27 July 1697 in Mansfield.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOSEPH HEMPSELL AND ALICE LORRANS

Joseph Hemsell was christened 25 February 1719 in East Markham, Nottinghamshire, the son of Joseph Hemsell and Sarah Moss. He married Alice Lorrans 15 November 1741 in East Markham. Alice was born in about 1719, most likely the daughter of John and Constance Lawrence of East Markham. Joseph Hemsell was a weaver. The Hempsall One Name Study website mentions "Joseph Hemsall (1684-1737) of East Markham and Sarah Moss", and "their eldest son, Joseph Hemsall who moved to Beckingham, Notts." Beckingham is about twelve miles north of East Markham.

East Markham

Joseph was buried 4 September 1781 in East Markham. Alice died and was buried 13 February 1773 in East Markham.

Joseph and Alice had the following children: *1. Sarah, christened 26 August 1742 in East Markham; married Thomas Frost 8 December 1763 in Mansfield, Nottinghamshire; 2. John, christened 31 December 1743 in East Markham; 3. Mary, christened 1 June 1746 in East Markham; 4. Joseph, christened 10 December 1748 in East Markham; 5. George, christened 23 June 1751 in East Markham; 6. Hannah, christened 12 January 1755 in East Markham.

HEMPSALL GENEALOGY

"Conventional 'paper chase' research has enabled all, or nearly all, living HEMPSALLS, HEMPSHALLS, HEMSHALLS, HEMPSELLS, HEMSOLLS and HEMPSHELLS to be derived from just one couple who married in Nottinghamshire in 1632 and lived in the village of East Markham, where one descendant still lives.

The most likely origin of HEMPSALL and its variants is a place name 'Hempshill', a small settlement now absorbed as a north-western suburb of Nottingham city. It is recorded in the Domesday survey of 1086 as Hamessel and in the following centuries under a bewildering variety of spellings: Hemdeshyll (1200), Hindishull (1239), Homeshull (1275), Hemsull (1376), Hemsell (1478), Hamsall (1524), Hemsell (1611), as well as Hemsall.

Ekwall, in his "Concise Oxford Dictionary of English place-names" derives the place name from "Hemedes's Hill", from an Anglo-Saxon personal name. In the middle ages, it was the site of a large estate, or manor.

The earliest record of the name HEMPSALL or similar used possibly as a hereditary surname is to an 'Inquisition post mortem' of 1345 at Nottingham, in which "Richard, son of Ralph, of Hemsull" was a witness. This instance shows hesitation between the use of a filial name (son of Ralph) and a locative name (Of Hemsull). Significantly, in another Inquisition at Nottingham in 1367, 'William de Hemselle' was a signatory, using the locative name alone. Only one fifteenth century record has so far come to light: in 1490, a cleric in Southwell, Nottinghamshire bequeathed his 'second best hat' to 'Margaret, wife of William Hemsell'. The earliest parish records are in North Lincolnshire in the 1540s, and the earliest extant will, dating from 1555, is that of Thomas Hemsall of Goltho, a village now deserted, twelve miles east of Lincoln.

Within the UK, HEMPSALLS are still concentrated in their original haunts of Nottinghamshire and Lincolnshire, with a more recent overspill into South Yorkshire and the Manchester area, with a sprinkling of families and individuals on the South Coast, Isle of Man and Furness district of Lancashire." James Moss, senior was listed in East Markham in an assessment taken on 28 October 1689. Widd. Moss and James Moss were also listed. This was "an assessment made by us the Inhabittanc of East Markham whose names are heare undar Subscribed for there Mag. of twelve pence in the pound for the Nesic(ary) defence of this Realme". (Nottingham Subsidies, 1689)

James served in a variety of positions in the parish:

James Mosse was mentioned in the parish chest records for his service as a bylawman (parish constable) in 1675: "Aprill 13: 1675: James: Moss then payed by and for the office of bylawman the this year last payed and there remainse dew to him the sum of three pounds ffourteen shillings and ffive pence ___ by us the inhabitants"

James Mosse & John Jackson - churchwardens 1678

James died and was buried 20 August 1694 in East Markham.

Burial record for James Moss in East Markham: "James Mosse buried the 20th of August"

James and Susanna had the following child: *1. James, christened 30 December 1637 in East Markham.

SOURCES: IGI; East Markham parish register, FHL #503792; Parish chest material for East Markham, 1640-1976 on www.familysearch.org.

Several possibilities are found for James Moss' parents in early East Markham records:

- James Mosse married Ann Raynes 20 November 1600 in East Markham, had daughter Anne christened 1610 in East Markham; son Thomas christened 1613 in Markham. Ann was buried in 1629 in East Markham. James was a churchwarden in 1629. James was buried in 1636 in East Markham.
- Robert Mosse married Beatrice Woodhouse 16 July 1600 in East Markham, had children Elizabeth (1607), Ann (1609), John (1612), and Susan (1617). Robert was buried in 1629 in East Markham.
- William Mosse married Elizabeth Grene 23 November 1599 in East Markham, and had children John (1597), Sythe (1600), and William (1603) christened in East Markham.
- John Mosse had sons John, christened 1598 in East Markham, and Michael, christened 1599 in East Markham.
- Thomas and Ane Mosse had a daughter Marye (1632), son John (1627) and a son James christened in 1620 in East Markham. Could this be our James? He would have been only 17 at the birth of son James in 1637.

William, Robert, and James were all the sons of Cuthbert Mosse: Cuthbert Mosse married Sence Crane 20 May 1577. Possibly the first three children were children of a previous wife.

Cuthbert had the following children: 1. Joane, christened 9 March 1572 in East Markham; 2. Margerye, christened 13 July 1573 in East Markham; 3. William, christened 22 January 1576 in East Markham; 4. Robert, christened 13 March 1579 in East Markham; 5. James, christened 9 December 1581 in East Markham.

Sence died in 1601. Most likely John and Thomas Mosse were also Cuthbert's children.

FAMILY GROUP RECORD OF JOHN AND ALYS CHAMBERS

John Chambers was born in about 1520 of Mansfield. He married Alys.

John was a churchwarden in Mansfield in 1557: "Thoroton states that "there were in the Church of Mansfield, before the time of Edward VI., ten chantries, whose land the Queen gave this year (1557) in fee to Christopher Grainger, clerk, the vicar, and William Wilde and John Chambers, the churchwardens of the parish church of Mansfield, to sustain one chaplain or priest." (The History of Mansfield)

John is also mentioned in estate records in 1553: "7th Edward VI. Copy of exemplification of a decree in the Court of Augmentations, as to the estate devised by the will of Lady Flogan... And one other cottage now or late in the tenure and occupation of John Chambers, in Maunsfielde, aforesaid, of the yearlie ferme of four shillings."

Alys died in 1564. In The History of Mansfield: "A brass plate on a gravestone: Here lyeth the corps of John Chambers and Alys his wyfe, who lived in the feare of God 33 years, and had issue 7 sons and 7 daughters. John departed this life godlily. Alys died 1564."

The names of John and Alys' fourteen children are not listed, but these Chambers are found in early Mansfield records and are likely their children: 1. Agnes, married Thomas Cranshawe 18 October 1562 in Mansfield; 2. Elizabeth, married John Dand 28 November 1562 in Mansfield; *3. Frauncis, married Constance Freeman 20 April 1572 in Mansfield; 4. Alice, married John Harryson 3 October 1582 in Mansfield.
